

Venice schools lose $197,137 in federal title funds

By VALERIE EVENDEN
of the Press-Record

The Venice School District will lose a total of $197,137 in Title VII funds in the 1980-81 school year. Superintendent of Schools Robert N. Vickers informed the Venice Board of Education Monday night.

Title VII funds primarily are used to operate the district's remedial reading and mathematics programs and loss of this amount is another blow to the Venice School District's already tenuous financial position.

Reduction in Title VII federal funds from last year's $354,634 allocation will result in the elimination of six teaching positions and seven teacher-aide jobs, Supt. Vickers said.

Official word about the funding change came directly from authorities in Washington, D.C., to Venice Title VII Director Althea Cross.

Venice School District will continue to receive some Title VII funds, amounting to $157,497, in 1980-81.

The substantial reduction, however, is final and there is no hope that the lost funds will be restored this year, the administrator said.

"It appears to be a nationwide movement to reduce the remedial programs, with the emphasis in math and reading," Vickers said.

"We have been desegregated long enough, the authorities feel, so that remedial programs are not necessary to correct what was called 'racial isolation' at the start of the program.

"It is believed the need should not be there (anymore), if need is related to past segregation policies," he explained.

"Considering we were told the program was for one year only when it started and that one year has gone on for six years, I think we have been very lucky," Vickers said.

In the first year of the program, a total of $143,980 was added to district funds through Title VII.

He said about $2 million has been received over the six years by the Venice district, plus "a wealth of materials and supplies which have come into the schools from the Title VII program.

Some allowance still may be made for equipment, but the federal prison program have been substantially reduced, such as office supplies, equipment maintenance and field trips, Vickers said.

The 1980-81 funds will include salaries for a Title VII director, secretary, two counselors, one human relations specialist, one home-school coordinator, two parent-professionals and two teacher-aides.

Two of the teachers involved in Title VII, whose jobs are eliminated, had sufficient seniority to move over to the Venice-Lincoln Technical Center, Vickers said.

"Others will replace two-seventh grade non-tenure teachers, who will not be rehired, and another former Title VII teacher will replace a second-grade teacher who has resigned, Vickers explained.

Absorption of the faculty members from Title VII into general teaching assignments will cost the Venice district about $10,500 more in salary expenditures, as those to be reassigned are at higher levels on the salary schedule, the administrator advised the board.

"There is no doubt that the program has been a big help to the district," Vickers said, "when you consider the number of people with salaries at the top of the salary schedule who have been paid in the past with Title VII funds."

New home mortgage plan $15 to $20 million

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

Granite City hopes to have $15 million to $20 million in low-interest home mortgage bond money available for home buyers in the near future, and the city council acted in that direction Tuesday night, hiring the bonding underwriters for the project.

If a successful mortgage bond program can be launched, it probably will be larger than the city's first program last year in which $10 million in bonds were sold. The bonds provided home mortgages at 8 1/2 percent, while conventional home loans were averaging 12 percent at banks and savings and loan associations.

Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler told the city council Tuesday night that it appears the U.S. Congress may reject a pending bill which has had the effect of halting all mortgage bond issues by cities, since it would have made the bonds illegal.

The mayor said he believes the city should proceed with its plans for a new program as soon as possible and asked the council to confirm his actions hiring Clayton, Brown & Associates, Inc. of Chicago as the bonding underwriter for the city's next bond issue. The council concurred unanimously.

Clayton, Brown & Associates served as the bonding underwriter for bonds sold to finance the 19th Street overpass, which now is under construction.

The firm will conduct a market demand study to determine the bond purchasing potential of the area and to recommend an amount for the bond issue.

"We are fairly certain the market will buy a $15 million to $20 million bond issue," said David Nolan, administrative assistant to Mayor Schuler. "I believe we could have sold $15 million in the last program, but we decided on $10 million for the first shot," Nolan said.

Under the mortgage bond program, the city sells tax-free general obligation bonds and then distributes the money to mortgage brokers for home loans to individuals. Since the bonds are tax-free, they can be sold at a lower interest rate than conventional bonds, enabling the home loans to carry a lower interest rate than conventional mortgages.

The bonds are repaid from the mortgage payments by the home purchasers, at no cost to the city. At the end of the program, about 20 years from now, $12 million the city put into escrow from the bond proceeds to secure the bonds against defaults by homeowners will be released for use by the city any way it deems.

The city also will receive the interest from the $12 million. The bond holders could vote to release the funds, but the bonds are completely retired, but that is unlikely, Mayor Schuler noted.

He told the council that Clayton, Brown & Associates has agreed to do the preliminary work on the proposed new mortgage bonds at a cost of up to $24 per $1,000 par value of the bonds. Their work, thus far, has been done at no cost to the city, he said.

All expenses incurred in preparing and selling the bonds, including attorney fees, are paid from the bond proceeds, Schuler noted. It is likely that a local private attorney will be hired to work with a law firm in Chicago, possibly Chapman & Cutler, on preparing the bonds.

"I doubt we would use any of our city attorneys on this," Nolan said. Former City Attorney Lance Callis was criticized by a small group of city officials and others in connection with his fees for the city's last mortgage bond issue. The Madison County state's attorney's office later ruled that Callis was entitled to fees, in addition to his retainer from the city, for preparing the last mortgage bond program.

Sentence cuts recommended for three ex-Madison police

U.S. Attorney Gerald Fines has recommended that the U.S. Supreme Court, but the high court refused to hear the case May 12, referring the case back to Judge Ackerman for disposition of sentence.

Attorneys for Grzywacz, Goclan and Krieschok filed a motion with Ackerman requesting that the sentences be reduced and a hearing on that motion was held last Friday.

It was not announced in court, but Fines told the Press-Record Monday that he had recommended that the sentences be reduced somewhat.

"I told the court that the defendants cooperated fully and recommended some reduction, based on their cooperation," Fines said. He added, "I did not recommend any specified reduction, only that the sentences be reduced."

Judge Ackerman agreed at Friday's hearing to take the matter under advisement, but told Fines that he would decide the issue "as soon as possible," the prosecutor related.

After Judge Ackerman has reconsidered, he may modify one or all of the sentences and then set a date for the three to begin serving their prison time, if any. It is customary to give those convicted a short period in which to get their personal affairs in order before beginning their prison terms.

Fines refused to comment on what type of cooperation Grzywacz, Goclan and Krieschok may have given the government.

While the appeal process for the three former Madison policemen has expired, other appeals are pending on behalf of Maeras, Cooper and Stoller. Doctors Maeras have testified that they believe he is suffering from terminal cancer.

His case, along with the convictions of Cooper and Stoller, are being considered in the U.S. Court of Appeals, Seventh Circuit, in Chicago. No hearings have yet been held, Fines said.

Maeras and Cooper have been sentenced to serve 15 years each in a federal penitentiary after being found guilty of 23 counts of a federal racketeering indictment. It was alleged during their trial that they had received kickbacks from towing companies and had misused the mails and telephones for illegal fund raising activities on behalf of the now defunct Madison County Deputy Sheriffs' Association.

Stoller, a professional fund raiser from Nashville, Tenn., was convicted of one count of racketeering and 18 counts of fraud during the trial for his part in arranging fund-raising activities for the deputies' association. Judge Ackerman sentenced him to serve three years in prison. He also is appealing his conviction.

There have been indications recently that Cooper has appeared before a federal grand jury since his sentencing.

There also are indications that federal investigators are continuing their investigation into alleged corruption in the county and in this area and FBI agents have been said to have talked to several local officials.

Fines has pledged that the investigation into matters related to the Grzywacz, Goclan, Krieschok, Maeras, Cooper and Stoller cases will continue under his guidance. Other allegations still are being investigated under the coordination of the U.S. Attorney's office in East St. Louis, since the federal court districts were changed last year, moving this area from the Springfield-based district into the East-St. Louis-based district.

REV. EDWIN ARENTSEN, anti-abortion protester, is arrested again at the Hope Clinic for Women, 1602 Twenty-first St., Wednesday morning. After having the news media contacted, he orchestrated his arrest inside the back entrance to the clinic. At left is the clinic's director, Laura Moody. The arresting officer is Patrolman Sam Avedisian. He was charged with criminal trespass to property and assault, both state complaints signed by the clinic director. He was first arrested at the clinic in January of 1978 and he was later arrested on similar charges several times at the clinic. (Story on Page 4)

Negative response to Bible classes in high schools here

Bible classes taught at the high school by ministers—held in Granite City a generation ago but later halted after adverse court rulings—have been proposed again. But there was a negative response at Tuesday night's Board of Education meeting.

The concept of early morning voluntary religious classes was developed this spring by the Quad-Cities Ministerial Association, according to a letter from Timothy Burgher, chairman of the QCMA Education Committee.

School officials voiced agreement with the idea of increasing religious awareness among young people, but said they feel the proposed Bible devotions and prayers for interested students at South and North could violate the U.S. Constitution, the Illinois Constitution and state laws pertaining to separation of church and state.

Complicating factors noted in a legal opinion were the proximity of the meetings to the campuses, perhaps imparting an implied sanction by the school district; provision of school facilities for use in the religious services; potential promotion of the activities on the campuses; and the presence of a school teacher at each meeting.

A Text of the letter from the Ministerial Association follows:

"We of the Quad-Cities Ministerial Association feel a great need to better serve our youth and aid them in personal Christian growth. We feel that positive Christian leadership is needed to help them grow and develop as Christians.

"Part of the Christian growth is accomplished by spending time regularly with God, devoting a portion of the day to Him.

"We have considered many possible alternatives which would bring youth together during the week for the purpose of Christian growth.

"We concluded that a time just prior to school might be most advantageous for this purpose. It can also give the youth the opportunity to be Christian examples to their peers.

"We have carefully drawn up a proposal for such a regular meeting on the two senior high campuses. We ask that you carefully consider this proposal and support it as it is presented to the Board of Education and the Citizens Advisory Committee."

Timothy Burgher, chairman, Education Committee, Ministerial Association, outlined the plan as follows:

"High school campus devotions.

"Purpose: To provide a time of brief Bible devotions and prayers for interested students.

"Goals:

"1. To be a service to the youth of our communities.

"2. To help youth to discover their need of communication and a relationship with God.

"3. To aid Christian youth in their personal Christian growth.

"Objectives:

"1. To create another media by which we might propagate the gospel to our youth.

"2. To provide an additional contact with our youth.

"3. To exhort Christian youth in personal Christian growth.

"4. To help us become more aware of our youth's needs.

"5. To exhort Christian youth in personal Christian growth.

"6. To help us become more aware of our youth's needs.

"7. Campus devotions will begin no earlier than twenty minutes before the first bell (i.e., 7:35-7:55 a.m.) and meet twice weekly (specific days to be arranged.)

"8. Campus devotions will be provided with a room easily accessible by the students before school hours.

"9. Student involvement will be only those interested in participating.

"10. At least one volunteer teacher from each school will be present at all meetings. Their task will be only that of school staff relations. In the future, other teachers will be sought to implement a rotation service.

"11. The subject matter for the Bible devotions will be non-denominational.

"12. Promotion of the above activities will be by word-of-mouth, or posters, or off-campus nature, as authorized by the principal or Board of Education.

"13. Devotional personnel will be selected from the Ministerial Association members who volunteer. The Education Committee will appoint two ministers, one for each high school, for one-week appointment (two sessions).

"14. It will be the responsibility of the Education Committee to supervise the leadership by the following guidelines:

"A. No local church announcements or promotions will be made.

"B. Minister to arrive ten minutes before devotional time.

"C. Conduct of students is the responsibility of the minister and teacher.

Appointed editor

Promotion of Harry A. Barnes to editor of the Press-Record, effective this week, was announced today by Paul G. Halbert, general manager of the newspaper.

Barnes succeeds William F. Winter, editor for the past ten years, who is to take a less active role due to health reasons.

Originally from Decatur, Ill., Barnes began his newspaper career in East St. Louis and held news posts in East St. Louis and Belleville, including the position of city editor of the predecessor of the Metro-East Journal.

In 1951 Barnes became editor and publisher of The Progress newspaper in Edgemont-West Belleville.

He joined the Press-Record in 1964 and has been this newspaper's managing editor since 1970.

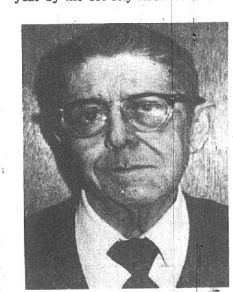

He and his wife, Esther, have seven children and seven grandchildren.

Barnes said he plans to maintain the Press-Record's tradition, since 1903, of thorough local news coverage, including detailed written and photographic reports on government organizations, businesses, family news and events of community-wide interest.

Winter, who will continue with the newspaper, joined the Press-Record news staff in 1948. He became assistant editor in 1956, associate editor in 1961 and editor in 1970.

At various times Winter served as president of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce, the Madison Rotary Club and the Tri-Cities Area United Way; chairman of the Tri-City Red Cross Chapter and the Unihab Boy Scout District; and general campaign chairman of the United Way. He has named young man of the year by Granite City Jaycees and citizen of the year by the Tri-City Area YMCA.

Armed robbery

Three men, one of them armed with a .32 caliber revolver, robbed an attendant at the Kerr-McGee Service Station, 425 McCambridge Ave., Madison, of $450 at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

While one man apparently stayed in a 1973 Oldsmobile Cutlass two others, both about 30, went into the station, stuck a .32 caliber revolver in the side of the service attendant and said, "Don't move. Don't take your hand out of the drawer."

The pair took the cash and fled south on McCambridge

Avenue and then west on Fourth Street.

Madison police were then called and they radioed a description of the car.

The car was stopped in East St. Louis by police, but the men escaped on foot.

On Aug. 4, 1977, CIA Director Stanfield Turner was given budgetary control over all foreign intelligence gathering agencies and was made chairman of two new intelligence policy committees by President Carter.

Chance sighting by deputy leads to John Ray's arrest

The man who devoted years to trying to prove whether or not James Earl Ray actually killed Martin Luther King on his own was responsible for apprehending Ray's brother, John Larry Ray, along Route 140 near the Alton Mental Health Clinic Monday.

Madison County Sheriff's Department Sgt. Conrad "Pete" Baetz, a former investigator for the U.S. House Committee which studied Dr. King's assassination, was in his private car with his wife after duty hours when he saw a man walking along the roadway who looked like Ray.

Baetz turned his car around for a better look passed him again and then stopped at a nearby phone to call the sheriff's department.

Deputy Tom Bearce arrived at 5:56 p.m. Monday and asked Ray for identification, knowing Ray was wanted in connection with a May 30 robbery in Adams County and had escaped from federal custody on Feb. 4.

After Bearce asked for Ray's identification, Baetz diverted Ray's attention by calling his nickname. Baetz yelled, "Hey, Jack," and Ray turned toward Baetz and recognized him. When Baetz identified himself, using his last name, Ray said he recognized him somewhat and then said, "Your first name's Conrad," it was related.

Bearce made the arrest without incident. A search of a shopping bag he was carrying revealed a loaded .38-caliber revolver, deputies alleged.

Ray was arraigned Tuesday morning before Circuit Judge Victor J. Mosele and readily admitted his identity, but denied having several alias names.

When Mosele asked him if he could post the $200,000 bond, Ray said he could not and mentioned there were federal warrants out for his arrest. Mosele said he was aware of the federal warrants, but had not yet received them.

He was flown to Adams County to face the robbery charges.

James Earl Ray currently is serving a 99-year prison term after admitting he shot and killed Dr. King in 1968.

'Rough night' for GC man

Rob Dagon, 2127 Edison Ave., had a bad night early this week. First, he was seated in the Ingleside Tavern, 23rd Street and Madison Avenue, when a man he knew entered, put an arm around him and punched him in the face.

Second, when Dagon left the tavern later, he discovered a brick had been thrown through the windshield of his truck, parked near the tavern.

Finally, after Dagon drove his truck home, he fell asleep in the cab and someone entered the truck and beat him again.

3 charged with damaging auto

Ronald P. Cline, 18, of 3128 Jill Ave., Alex Paz Jr., 18, of 2915 Palmer Ave., and Scott A. Clement, 20, of 24 Wilson Park Drive, were charged with disorderly conduct Tuesday afternoon as Granite City detectives concluded their investigation into a Saturday incident in which a car was damaged.

Jeffrey Warren, 2032 Benton St., said his auto was parked at Happy Joe's Pizzeria in the Crossroads Shopping Center complex when someone let the air out of all four tires and tore out the spark plug wires.

TRI-CITY RED CROSS provides people like Russell Gurnow of Granite City with transportation for regular therapy sessions at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. Disabled given rides to out-patient therapy

By JIMMY TUETKEN

To many handicapped people, a routine trip to the doctor's office is filled with hardships and obstacles. Many are not able to drive, and some find riding a bus impossible.

But the Tri-City Chapter of the Red Cross has found a way to help handicapped people cope with the hardships of traveling to the doctor's office or the hospital for out-patient therapy.

"The Red Cross has been providing a transport service for handicapped and disabled persons for some time," said Gwenda O'Guin, executive director of the Tri-City Red Cross, "but many people who need the service are not aware of it."

In addition to transporting patients to the doctor's office and to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for out-patient therapy including physical, speech, and occupational therapies and the stroke rehabilitation program — patients in the local area may also receive transportation to many of the medical centers in St. Louis.

The Red Cross can help people who need medical care in numerous St. Louis hospitals, such as Barnes, Veterans' and Jewish.

"I don't know how some people would receive needed medical care without this service," said Bob Turck, social worker at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

The service is available weekdays by contacting Miss O'Guin at the Red Cross, 452-7184, or the Social Work Department of St. Elizabeth Medical Center, 798-3018.

"All the drivers are volunteers and do a fine job of caring for the handicapped passengers," Turck said.

The car is provided to the Red Cross by Big Ford Chevrolet, Collinsville.

He had been a patient for a period of time at Jewish Hospital, St. Louis, and was released from the hospital about a week ago. He had been in ill health the last three years.

Arrest Rev. Arenstsen at clinic; faces 2 charges

By PAT POLEY
of the Press-Record

Nearly two years after his last arrest, the Reverend Edwin F. Arenstsen was arrested again at 10:22 a.m. Wednesday inside the back entrance to the Hope Clinic for Women, 1602 Twenty-first St.

He has been charged with criminal trespass to property and assault. Both charges are state complaints and were signed by the clinic's director, Laura Moody.

Rev. Arenstsen apparently orchestrated the arrest after the news media was contacted nearly an hour and a half prior to the incident.

He was first arrested outside the clinic on Jan. 19, 1978, and charged with disorderly conduct after attempting to enter the clinic.

Subsequent arrests on clinic property include a charge of criminal trespass to property on July 6, 1978, with three women protesters, and another criminal trespass charge on July 28 of that year.

After speaking to newsmen Wednesday morning, Rev. Arenstsen proceeded to the back entrance of the clinic and entered the building only to find the interior door locked. Employees inside remained working as usual despite the newspaper photographers' flashes and TV-camera lights.

Laura Moody, the clinic's director, came to the door and said that the newsmen could enter the reception area, but that Rev. Arenstsen was not welcome and then asked him to leave. Arenstsen insisted that he also be given access to the clinic so that he could talk to the staff about what they were doing.

He contends that an average of 75 babies per week are being "slaughtered" inside the clinic through abortions.

After several more requests for the Roman Catholic priest to leave the premises, the director asked another staff member to call the police.

She then attempted to close the door to keep the priest from entering the clinic proper until the police arrived.

Rev. Arenstsen put his foot between the door and jamb and held onto the door keeping it open. Moody struggled to keep control of the door.

The two voiced their differences on the topic of abortion with Moody referring to the priest as "Eddie".

Police quickly responded and Patrolman Sam Avedisian talked to the priest and asked him several times to leave. Rev. Arenstsen did not make a direct reply nor did he make any attempt to leave the premises.

Avedisian then took the priest by the arm and led him outside to an awaiting patrol car. Detective Sgt. Don Knight assisted Avedisian at the clinic.

For his first arrest for disorderly conduct in January of 1978, he was sentenced to serve 30 weekends in the county jail "ministering to the needs of the inmates" while serving 18 months of probation.

After refusing to comply with the sentence, Rev. Arenstsen was arrested again outside the clinic and charged with contempt of court and given 30 days in jail. He was taken to the Madison County Jail where he served a modified 11-day sentence and was released.

AUTO IS TAKEN

The copper-colored 1975 two-door Thunderbird of David Cozart, 1042 Third St., Venice, was stolen from the 2400 block of Edison Avenue between 2:30 and 4:50 a.m. Wednesday.

They have what everyone wants. Everyone helps them fight their fires, but they pay nothing for it.

"We can't have a mutual aid pact with them, because they don't have a fire department. I don't think we owe the port authority anything. I will entertain a motion that we sue them to pay for the radio," the mayor concluded.

The council concurred unanimously.

GC to sue port over loss of radio

Increasing friction between Granite City officials and Tri-City Regional Port Authority figures was evident at Tuesday night's Granite City Council meeting as the council voted unanimously to file suit against the port district to recover the cost of a $1,429 portable radio which was lost when Granite City firemen aided in fighting a blaze aboard the Senator Sam tugboat at the Port Feb. 28.

Mayor Paul Schuler, referring to the port authority, told the council, "They have refused to annex a half-dozen times to annex any part of that (port) to the city. They have what everyone wants. Everyone helps them fight their fires, but they pay nothing for it.

Indecency is charged

Paul T. Coonrod Jr., 21, of 3161 Jill Ave., was taken to the Madison County Jail at 2:35 a.m. Wednesday in lieu of $6,000 bond on two charges of public indecency.

Police picked him up at the Jersey County Jail as he completed a sentence Tuesday morning and brought him to the Granite City Police Building where he was served with two warrants.

They allege that on the afternoon of April 23, he stood nude in the doorway of his home as two 12-year-old girls walked by.

Trades Council records go to state museum

The minutes of the meetings of the Tri-City Trades Council dating back to 1896 have been turned over to the Illinois State Museum, E.F. Reiske, president of the council, said yesterday.

Many of the old records were printed regularly in the Press-Record and because of their age were in delicate condition. They are being preserved by the Illinois State Historical Society, Reiske said.

A representative of the society came to Granite City to inspect the records with a view toward placing them on microfilm, but the project became too costly and it was decided to preserve the records as they are. The records consist primarily of the minutes of the trades council meetings.

FUND-RAISING PROJECT for the St. Louis Multiple Sclerosis Chapter is the ugliest bartender contest in which customers pay a quarter to vote for their candidate. All proceeds go to the chapter. Participating in the contest are two bartenders from Corral Lounge on Nameoki Road. They are Pat Springer, left, manager of the lounge, and Joyce Keuss. The local lounge also has times when employees and some customers sell kisses for a dollar and customers can "buy someone ugly a beer" and keep the mug. The catch is that the mugs are plastic replicas of the traditional mug only it holds just one ounce of the "ugly" person's favorite beer. Some other bars and saloons are also participating in the Quad-City area to raise money to fight the disease. (Press-Record Photo)

City OKs revenue bond for Nestle

The Granite City Council Tuesday night approved sale of a $1 million industrial revenue bond to help the Nestle Co. finance a new warehouse which has been constructed at the company's facility on Adams street.

The bond ordinance holds the city harmless from any liability in repayment of the bond, Casper Nighossian, assistant city attorney, told the aldermen, before they approved the document.

The bond will be repaid from Nestle revenues. Nestle has given the Chase Manhattan Bank, which will purchase the bond, a guarantee that the company will repay the bond in the event it is not retired by the intended means. Nighossian said, "I have done everything in my power to assure that the city will not be held responsible," Nighossian pledged.

The aldermen voted to suspend the rules so the ordinance could be approved on final passage at the same meeting.

The council also passed a resolution appointing Nighossian as the attorney for the Nestle revenue bond issue. His fees are to be paid from bond proceeds, at no cost to the city.

John Bridick resigns

By MICK STRANGE of the Press-Record
John Bridick, 71, has been active in public service in Madison since he was first elected Democratic committeeman of Precinct 6, Venice township, in 1944, resigned Tuesday evening at the Madison City Council meeting as a member of the Madison Board of Police Commissioners.

Bridick has moved to 2423 Grand Ave., Granite City. Born and reared in Madison, Bridick said, "I will always be a Madisionian in my heart."

Bridick was born in Madison April 6, 1909, and attended Madison public schools.

Active in Madison politics with the late Mayor Stephen Maeras, Bridick commented, "There isn't many of the old group left. I guess Eddie Miller and I are the only two around."

Bridick was elected in 1945 as alderman of Ward One and served three full terms. In 1961 he was elected police magistrate and served until 1965.

He was Madison County Democratic chairman from 1958 through 1960. He also served as Venice township school treasurer from 1948 to 1960 and Venice Township tax assessor from 1970 through 1974.

Bridick at one time was also a member of the Madison Volunteer Fire Department and worked as a desk clerk at the Madison Police Department.

He was employed for 35 years by the E.A. Friedman Co. He is a charter member of the Madison Lions and the Croation Fraternal Union. Bridick is proud of the fact that in all the numerous times he ran for political office he never lost an election.

"John has done a truly outstanding job for the people of Madison for many years," Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk said at the city council meeting.

"He has a lot of friends here in Madison and we all wish him well," Sasyk said. Bridick is the uncle of Madison Chief of Police Donald Bridick and Sgt. Charles Bridick.

Police stop most daylight burglaries

About 75 percent of the recent rash of daylight burglaries in Madison have been solved and much of the stolen property returned, Madison Chief of Police Donald L. Bridick told the Madison City Council at its Tuesday night meeting.

Chief Bridick said that thanks largely to the efforts of Madison Officer Gary Marsala, a 15-year-old juvenile, from Granite City, is now being sought.

According to Bridick, the youth has fled the state. The council awarded a contract on low bid for the railroad spur in the Maeras Industrial Park to Kelly Railroad Co., of St. Louis, Mo., for $200,703. The cost is being paid by Southwestern Steel Co.

A contract was awarded to Key Equipment Company, low bidders, for the steel commercial containers for Madison businesses.

Bids were submitted for a variety of sizes from one-yard containers to eight-yard containers.

Mayor Mike Sasyk told the council members they will have to get together to figure out where the new trash collections system will be tried in the residential areas.

The city is leasing 600 residential trash collection carts which is enough for only two of the five wards. The pilot collection project will last for 60 to 90 days.

A decision on what wards the project will be tested in will be made along with an approximate starting date at the next council meeting, Tuesday, July 8. Numerous bids were read and discussed for the cable

Boy Scout Troop 96, sponsored by Maryville School PTA, returned this week from a camping trip at Beaver Dam State Park.

Upon arriving at the park, the boys set up a campsite and built a campfire. While on the campsite, the scouts cooked their own meals.

Time was spent fishing and competing in skits, singing songs and telling ghost stories around the campfire during the evening hours.

An orienteering compass reading course was conducted by Scoutmaster Tom Modglin.

Scout Doug Hale won first place for catching the biggest fish and the Roadrunner Patrol won top honors for the best skit.

Adults escorting the group included Richard Orescovich, Joe Schaefer, Bob Young, Clay Haddock and Bud Charbonnier. Also in attendance was Keith Haddock.

It is imperative that Granite City complete and pass its new zoning ordinance soon before the courts allow businesses to take over the city's Sixth and Seventh Wards, the Granite City Council agreed Tuesday night.

"How about a nice body shop on Terrace Lane?" Alderman Paul Fisk of the Third Ward asked sarcastically after the council was informed the courts had ordered the city to allow a dental office to be established in a house at 2130 Johnson Road.

He received his medical degree at the St. Louis University School of Medicine and served his internship and residency at the St. Louis U. Group hospitals.

Kiddie Camp July session

The Tri-City Area YMCA has announced that a new session of Kiddie Camp will begin July 1 at the Y.

Kiddie Camp is for 3 to 5 years olds, and meets on Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 9 to 11:30. Each morning, campers will receive a swimming lesson, followed by crafts, stories, gym activities and a snack. Augusta Birkhead and Ted Thalman teach the swimming lesson, and Connie Siebert supervises all other activities.

Cost of the program is $7.50 per two-week session for "Y" members and $12 for non-members, according to Lucy Tueth, program director, 676-7200.

ELECTRONIC WARFARE EXERCISE BY COOPER Marine Pfc. Glenn E. Cooper, son of Bessie M. Cooper of 95 Hill St., Madison, participated in exercise "Gallant Eagle" in the California desert. He is a member of the 2nd Battalion, 11th Marines, based at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

"Gallant Eagle" was an electronic warfare exercise conducted at Fort Irwin involving forces from the Army, Air force and Marine Corps. It was designed to test the capabilities of the participating units in a concentrated electromagnetic threat environment. A 1979 graduate of Venice High School, Pfc. Cooper joined the Marine Corps in August 1979.

The dental office had been opposed by the city's Planning Commission and later by the city council, which contended that block should remain residential.

Petitioners Alan J. Briggs, Karen L. Briggs and Fred Fossieck filed suit, protesting the denial of a special use permit for the dental office and residence and the circuit court upheld him, saying that the city "has acquiesced, if not cooperated in the turning of Johnson Road into what it is today," through the random issuing of special use permits in the area.

The city appealed the decision to the Appellate Court at Mount Vernon.

Assistant City Attorney Irvin C. Slate informed the council in a letter Tuesday night that the Appellate Court had upheld the decision of the Circuit Court and recommended that the city allow the dental office to be established.

Slate said he felt it would be a waste of time and money to petition the Appellate Court to reconsider its decision and said he felt it was "highly doubtful" that the Illinois Supreme Court would agree to consider the case.

The council concurred with Slate's recommendation by placing his letter on file, but not without lengthy discussion.

Alderman Mike Mudrusic of the Seventh Ward said, "There is nothing we can do. There are two other houses on that block for sale. If we lose this, we will lose them to businesses and then we will start losing all over the Sixth and Seventh Wards."

Mayor Paul Schuler commented, "This is a very serious problem, but this one is pretty much down the tube. That's why it is important we have hearings on the new city zoning ordinance and modernize it."

Schuler said the hearings probably will be held in July. Alderman Paul Ray Bowler of the Seventh Ward stated, "The residential areas are being violated and the court upheld it. People don't have any sanctuary against business now and the courts are violating what people need—areas for business and areas to get away from business."

Schuler also contended, "The circuit judge is the supreme being. He can put anything anywhere and it is quite probable he would be upheld (by the Appellate Court)."

Under the new rules, several categories of equipment were added to the list of those eligible for the exemption. These include tools, dies, fixtures, patterns and molds; leased equipment; and food processing equipment.

In addition, the requirement that machinery be used "exclusively" for manufacturing was changed to read that it be used "primarily" in manufacturing, meaning it must be used at least 50 percent of the time.

The new rules also relax requirements that certificates confirming eligibility of each sale be filed at the time of each purchase.

Under the new rules, purchases may be grouped on a single certificate and certificates may be filed quarterly. Penalty and interest provisions for late filing of certificates have been deleted in the new rules.

In addition, provisions under the old rules for assessing taxes on machinery originally purchased for manufacturing, but later converted to non-exempt uses, have been relaxed to eliminate any tax liability if the equipment has been used at least half its useful life for exempt purposes.

The changes are retroactive to equipment purchased on or after Jan. 1, 1980.

Non-nicotine product gains in marketing

A revolutionary non-nicotine, non-tobacco smoking product now being introduced in Illinois has captured a significant market share among cigarette smokers in two western states where initial distribution began earlier this year.

According to a report just released by International Brands, Inc., manufacturer of the new non-tobacco smoke called "Free," the product has earned a 0.75 percent share of the market in California and Colorado.

The report was based on surveys of smokers conducted in May by Data Marketing Inc., a northern California independent research firm.

Lee J. Danna, chairman of the board, explained that a 0.5 percent share of market is considered the benchmark for success by the tobacco industry for a new brand introduction.

Dog obedience class will start

An eight-week dog obedience class for novice dog handlers will begin Wednesday, July 2, at the Tri-City Area YMCA. Classes will meet Wednesdays at 7 p.m. for one hour.

Don Gulledge of Granite City will instruct the class, which is structured to teach basic commands. He has a studied basic and advanced dog obedience and has bred and trained guard dogs.

Registration for the class can be made by calling the YMCA at 876-7200. The fee for "Y" members is $10, and for non-members, $15. Those enrolling in the course are to attend the first week without their dogs; specific rules and information will be given out at that session. Dogs should be at least six months old.

"I would like to address

Robert Dintelmann board chairman, read a message from absent Granite City member Avery Schermer, who said, "Even though my absence prohibits me from voting, let the minutes show that I do concur in the appointment of Dr. Bruce Wissore as interim president."

The message was read over the objection of Bellevillan Edward O'Malley, who said he had no objection to the message, but only to the precedent of accepting messages from absent board members.

Dr. Bruce R. Wissore was named acting president of Belleville Area College at a special meeting of the board of trustees Tuesday night.

Dr. Wissore, who has been vice president for executive services since March 1977, came to the college in June 1973 as assistant to the president.

His main areas of responsibility have been public information, personnel and institutional research, and negotiations.

His educational background includes master's degrees in physical education and student personnel and the Ph.D. degree in administration of higher education.

Six board members were present at Tuesday's meeting. The appointment was approved by a 5-1 vote. Elizabeth Jenner of Mascoutah voted "no," citing what she called "preliminary behind-the-scenes maneuvering" as the reason for her opposition.

Pontoon Beach Lions to contribute $5,000

The Lions Club of Pontoon Beach has pledged $5,000 to the Lions Clubs of Illinois campaign to raise $5,000,000 to finance construction of the Lions of Illinois Eye Research Institute in Chicago on the medical center campus of the University of Illinois.

Lions Clubs all over Illinois are working together through the Lions of Illinois Foundation, the charitable arm of the Lions Clubs, to meet the goal. Contributions for the research facility are coming from individual Lions, Lions Clubs, Lionsess and Leo Clubs, individuals, businesses, corporations, foundations, and those interested in helping prevent blindness.

"The Lions of Illinois Eye Research Institute will provide modern facilities for researchers," said Dr. George Goodwin, 180 Sandy Shore Drive, club president.

"Researchers at the University of Illinois have made tremendous strides in the battle against blindness and visual disorders, but they are hampered by crowded conditions. Our facility will give them the space to increase research several hundred per cent."

The Lions will raise the money to construct the facility, which then will be staffed and maintained by the University of Illinois. Programs will be under the direction of the chairman of the University's Department of Ophthalmology.

More than 10 million Americans have a significant, uncorrectable, impairment of vision. About 700,000 Americans are legally blind. Some 30,000 Americans go blind annually, with 80 percent for reasons unknown to medical science. Cases of blindness have more than tripled in the last 20 years, faster than any other medical disability.

"We are inviting the community to join with us in our battle against blindness and visual impairments," Goodwin said. "We welcome everyone's participation. We call our campaign the 'Gift of Sight' because research can lead to restored or saved sight."

All contributions to the Eye Institute are taxable. To contribute, donors sign a pledge card listing the amount they would like to give, which may be paid in installments over a period of up to five years. Donors of a minimum of $5,000 are eligible for special commemorative opportunities, while donors of $1,000 to $4,999 will be listed on plaques displayed in prominent locations within the Institute.

"Any size gift is welcome," the Club president said. "Our saying is, 'Give until it feels good.'"

For further information about the Lions of Illinois Eye Research Institute contact Zone Chairman Donald Patrick at 931-6585.

Bus fare will rise Tuesday

"Even at twice the price, Bi-State is still the best transportation bargain around town."

That is the view of the area-wide transit system, which will raise the basic bus fare from 25 to 50 cents starting Tuesday, July 1.

The Bi-State Development Agency compares bus riding to the estimated cost of operating an auto in this metropolitan area. It says: "By taking Bi-State to work, the average yearly cost will be $240, a saving of $1,665 a year. If you park free, you still save $1,245."

The present 25 cent fare dates back to 1973. Already charging 50 cents or more are Chicago, Dallas, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Los Angeles, New York, Philadelphia, Indianapolis, Buffalo and Milwaukee.

With the Bi-State bus fare rising to 50 cents as of July 1, 10-cent zone charges will be abolished.

The fare for express, rapid, park-ride and shopper express bus lines will climb to 75 cents. The fare for children aged five through 12 will be 25 cents, up from the present 15 cents.

Elderly and handicapped persons will pay 25 cents at all times, compared to current rates of 10 and 15 cents during off-peak and peak hours.

Weekly passes will rise from $3.50 to $7. They are used for unlimited riding during the week of issue on local service. Starting July 1, passes will be good Tuesdays through Mondays instead of the present, Mondays through Sundays. Transfers will continue to be issued to the elderly and handicapped at no charge, and to regular riders for 10 cents.

THEFT, VANDALISM
In addition to taking an AM-FM radio and doing considerable damage to the inside dash of an auto belonging to Clara Hand, 43 Fairway Estates, the auto was vandalized on the outside. The incident was discovered at 2:35 p.m. Tuesday.

Hospice opens fund drive

Hospice of Madison County is initiating a fund-raising campaign to reach the business people of Madison County. The drive will begin in the Quad-City area and will be headed by E. F. Reiske.

Local businesses will receive a letter introducing Hospice to each establishment, and within two weeks a representative from the Hospice board of directors will personally visit them, to explain the specifics of the Hospice program, its goals and to answer any questions.

The local Hospice program is a home care organization which emphasizes physical, emotional and spiritual comfort for persons with advance cancer and for their families. Emphasis is on care of physical symptoms and other problems associated with this phase of the illness, rather than on cure of the disease.

Priority is given to control of symptoms for the patient, and on supportive care for both patient and family members. Visits to the home by the Hospice staff are arranged in a manner permitting flexibility, to meet the needs of individual family situations. Close telephone contacts are maintained between visits.

To assist in emergencies which otherwise result in hospitalization, an RN is on call at all times.

The program is totally supported by memberships, private donations and memorials. "The progress this program has made in the first nine months of operation, could not have been possible without the efforts of all of us in the community, in which the members work together in the furtherance of its goals.

"A community made up of patients, their families, board members, volunteers and staff. It is in this spirit that the program shall continue to move forward to meet the challenges of the coming year," a drive leader said.

Losses for Smith Corp.

The slump in new housing starts, reduced auto sales and high interest rates are hitting hard at A. O. Smith Corp., company officials said Tuesday in Milwaukee.

L. B. Smith, chairman and chief executive officer, predicted the company will report a loss for the second quarter and first half of the year, resulting from substantially lower sales compared with the same periods a year ago.

"All three of our major markets have been affected by the recession and high interest rates," Smith said,

"but the greatest impact on the company has been the decline in auto and truck sales, particularly in the light truck, intermediate and large car categories."

A. O. Smith is the nation's largest supplier of auto and truck frames and the company's Automotive Division is suffering a severe reduction in volume, Smith said.

Smith predicted sales in the second quarter will amount to about $162,000,000, off 33 percent from the second quarter of 1979, when sales were $240,946,000.

The company expects a loss from operations of $4,900,000 to $5,650,000, or $1 to $1.15 per share, in the second quarter, compared with earnings of $12,574,000, or $2.55 per share, in the same period last year before an extraordinary charge of $1.22 per share.

For the first six months, A. O. Smith sales are expected to amount to $383,000,000, compared with sales in the first half of 1979 of $468,113,000.

The loss from operations in the first six months of 1980 will amount to between $2,550,000 and $3,300,000, or 52 to 67 cents per share. In the first six months of 1979, A. O. Smith had earnings from operations of $20,853,000, or $4.23 per share, before an extraordinary charge of $1.22 per share.

A strike at the company's auto frame manufacturing plant in Granite City, which began April 8 is contributing further to the decline in Automotive Division profits, Chairman Smith said.

Roof and asphalt work at schools

Roof improvements totaling $41,800 were authorized Tuesday night by the Granite City Board of Education.

Biebel Brothers, St. Louis, will do roofing work costing $14,255 at Niedringhaus School, $10,950 at Logan School, $8,445 at Wilson School, and $6,500 at Probst School, a total of $40,150. Lakeside Roofing, Granite City, will perform work costing $1,650 at a Niedringhaus classroom area.

The board accepted a $22,945 low bid from C. D. Peters Construction Co. to perform asphalt work at Mitchell School and Granite City High School and to place seal and chip on Maryville School, Wilson School, Prather Junior High School, Coolidge Junior High, the Board of Education office and the GCHS South cafeteria area.

At a cost of $7,506, George Grove Plumbing and Heating Co. will install two gasoline storage tanks and two pumps on school district property at 20th and Adams streets. The pumps will be used for servicing of school maintenance vehicles and driver education autos. An overhead garage door and door operator will be installed at the GCHS South storage shed where bricklayer apprentices have been practicing. The task will be done by Cox Brothers on their low bid of $1,236.

For 59.6 cents a gallon, Edwardsville Skelgas will provide 1,800 gallons of liquefied petroleum for Mitchell School. The contract includes an escalating clause to offset price increases or decreases.

Industrial education hand tools and equipment purchases will total $13,051 from nine firms, including $4,306 from Brodhead and $3,371 from Houser.

Eye protection equipment for re-sale to vocational students will be obtained from U. S. Safety, $2,350 for 1,000 spectacles and $1,350 for 1,000 pairs of goggles; and from Mancine Optical, $2,350 for 1,000 pairs of bifocals and $33 for trifocals.

In industrial education electronics equipment, two solid state oscilloscopes and eight function generators for a total of $2,385 and Continental Specialties will provide eight proto-board kits for $358.

Dayton Racquet Co. will carry out racquet repair work for $357 and Granite City Termite Control will provide pest control at 19 buildings for $4,218.

Hilla Brand will supply dishwashing materials at specified gallon and drum prices, O. J. Photo Supply will provide 42 double-roll film packs for $352. Rolytype will supply typewriter ribbons at a total cost of $607.

Packaging Service Co. will provide 1,000 gallons of duplicator fluid for $2,384.

Student insurance awarded

Student accident insurance for the 1980-81 year in the Granite City district was awarded Tuesday night to the Laeders Agency for coverage provided through Mutual of Omaha. The same firm supplied the insurance for the past two years.

Cost will be $15,903, including $6,432 for football insurance, $3,440 for 24-hour insurance on seventh through 12th grade students, $2,660 for 24-hour coverage on pre-schoolers through sixth graders, $1,755 on school-time accidents involving seventh through 12th graders and $1,313 for school-time insurance on pre-school through sixth grade.

Individual costs will be $34.40 (football); $40 for 7-12 (24-hour); $28 for PS-6 (24-hour); and $13 for 7-12 and $7 for PS-6 (school-time).

In other business, the Board of Education permanently transferred $500,000 from the bond and interest fund to the building fund to aid in financing new boilers and heating plants.

Due to the sale of McKinley School and interest earned, there is an additional $223,603 in the bond fund. This is to be transferred to the building fund during the 1980-81 year starting July 1, to finance new roofs at Lake School and Prather Junior High School.

It was decided after a discussion to continue utilizing a working cash fund, from which funds can be loaned to other accounts and then reimbursed yearly.

A series of June 30 year-end transfers of contingency accounts and other funds was authorized.

Gitchoff Agency was named to provide the school district treasurer's fidelity bond on its low bid of $2,459.

It was decided to file for an extension of time on completing Life Safety Code building improvements at Wilson, Maryville and Lake schools, Granite City High School and Coolidge and Prather Junior High schools.

The district will submit its 1980-81 Title I program application a $490,940 plan for instructional services at Coolidge and Prather junior highs and six elementary schools, Marshall, Emerson, Logan, Webster, Wilson and Lake.

Granite City District Nine schools will continue their throat culture program, which has detected 224 positive cases in the last five years, including 22 in 1979-80. Heart and other maladies often can be prevented through early detection in the form of throat cultures, it was noted.

C. J. Schlosser and Co. was named to provide an annual school district audit for 1979-80 at a cost not to exceed $5,600.

Three new Lion club members

Those installed are: Phil Vaughn, sponsored by Lion Jim Jump; Jim Wells, sponsored by Lion Bob Cuvar; and Robert Lipscomb, sponsored by Lion Bob Carroll.

Nameoki rejects funds for township cleanup

By RICK PEARSON

A request by Frank Melchic, Nameoki Township highway commissioner, to have approximately $4,000 taken from the health fund and put into a cleanup project was rejected Monday night by the Nameoki Town Board.

Melchic requested the money to be used to pay a truck driver $6.25 per hour and $7 per hour for the use of a truck. The truck would be used to haul trash picked up by youth workers under the township's CETPA program.

Board members criticized Melchic, saying he should have budgeted for the money instead of requesting it from the township. Board members said it was Melchic's job to provide for cleanup of streets and ditches in the township.

"Well, I see as hell can't see paying money out of health for this," Trustee Lee Adams said. "Frank's supposed to do it. It's his job."

Jim Counts, another board member, said he could not understand why Melchic made the request. He said Melchic is continually having budget problems, yet recently hired two new truck drivers.

Melchic, who was not at the meeting, said Tuesday morning the $4,000 was needed to facilitate the loss of a regular man on his road crew to supervise the CETPA workers.

Melchic said it is his job to clear up problems related to standing water in ditches, but said the youths would be cleaning trash—something which does not come under highway department control.

Melchic also said he had hired two additional men, but they were temporary workers to be used to fill in for vacationing workers.

"We have $13,000 in the health fund and I was rejected on trying to use it last year," Melchic said. "The money has sat and it wasn't used. They (the board) said I didn't have a program prepared, well, this year I did and it was rejected again."

Melchic said the CETPA workers' road program will continue despite his loss of a member of the road crew to supervise the youths.

Venice school bus question delayed

The question of abolishing in-town bus transportation for Venice students in the 1980-81 school year still remains at issue after the Venice Board of Education decided at its meeting Monday night to delay action on the proposal until the board's next session on July 21.

Board members also agreed to postpone the regular July 14 meeting until July 21 and then cancelled a second meeting in July, previously set for July 28.

"Our biggest concern is for the safety of the children crossing Fourth Street," School Board President Jack Tolliver and Supt. of Schools Robert Vickers both stated in reviewing the problems of eliminating school bus service in town.

It was noted that discussion and possible action concerning curtailing transportation for students living in the city had been postponed at the board's June 9 meeting due to the absence of two members.

At the earlier meeting, a petition opposing the discontinuance of bus service and questioning safety aspects of the proposal was presented by Earl Hogan, a former school board member.

Supt. Vickers said 67 signatures were included on the petition, but those who signed were not necessarily parents of children enrolled in Venice schools.

It was suggested the city might be asked to erect traffic control signs on Fourth Street or a crossing watchman could be hired.

"But the city probably couldn't afford it," it was stated.

Vickers estimated that 125 students would be affected by discontinuing school bus service in town, including about 70 elementary pupils between kindergarten and eighth grade levels.

The district could, save between $3,000 and $4,000 per year, including the average cost of equipment replacement, by eliminating the service, it was stated.

The Venice School District, which operates its own bus service, presently has four buses. One of the vehicles could be dropped if in-town transportation is curtailed, it was speculated.

It was agreed to contact the Illinois State Highway Department to obtain the latest information on traffic flow along Fourth Street before a decision is reached. At the request of Board Attorney Larry Hartman, also shelved until the next meeting was a recommendation made by an auditing firm that various district funds be consolidated.

House bans drug paraphernalia sale

State Rep. Sam W. Wolf, D-Granite City, announced this week that the Illinois House has passed HB 1505, which would prohibit sale of drug paraphernalia to minors and create a Paraphernalia Control Act defining terms and specifying offenses and penalties.

Rep. Wolf said the act would require persons selling smoking accessories or smoking herbs to post a warning sign regarding sales to minors. The Control Act is designed to prohibit the spread of illegal drugs and other smoking materials, including paraphernalia used in connection therewith.

Any knowing violation would constitute a Class C misdemeanor with penalties of up to 30 days in jail and a $500 fine.

Many home rule units of government have already passed local ordinances along similar guidelines, but this legislation would apply on a statewide basis to both home rule and other units, Wolf said.

Savings through renewal clause

To the Editor:

It's interesting to note that after all the wheel-spinning in seeking bidders on the trash removal contracts, there was a renewal clause in the existing contract that would save not only money, but a lot of time and trouble — had someone read it.

It's not too surprising, at least in Granite City, that no one knew of this automatic renewal clause, because in Granite City no one appears to think it is necessary to attach a copy of the contract to the resolution which is submitted to the aldermen in order to obtain their approval for the proper city officials to sign that contract.

Therefore, the aldermen are never fully aware just exactly what is contained in the contracts they are approving.

I want to recall reading complaints by some of the aldermen about this practice in the past.

Obviously, the officials who signed the contract never got around to reading it. And when it was coming up for renewal, apparently the city attorney didn't get around to reading it either.

But then, if the city attorney had read it, the city might have been presented with an additional bill for his services, over and beyond the call of duty (whatever that is).

We could, of course, ask the state's attorney of Madison County if officials have done anything unethical. But that would appear to be more useless wheel-spinning, since it appears that the only time that office, as well as the taxpayers, discover anything about the contract when we find it out from the federal courts.

So meanwhile, we continue paying Granite City officials' salaries for such needless wheel-spinning as this recent letting of bids, studying the feasibility of Granite City doing its own trash removal, etc., simply because some of our officials either can't read — or won't take the time — to read what they are approving.

Editor's note: The officials who signed the contract read it. They waited to renew it until a May 1 deadline because, after that date, the contractor no longer had authority to cancel the contract.

Fireworks threaten eyesight

An estimated 8,028 Americans were treated in hospital emergency rooms for injuries from fireworks last year, almost one-third more than the total reported the previous year.

As the Fourth of July approaches, the National Society to Prevent Blindness (NSPB) is warning that all fireworks endanger life and limb, particularly eyesight.

Nearly 15 percent of last year's reported injuries from pyrotechnics were to the eye. "Since there is no way to estimate how many were treated in doctors' offices, at home or by direct hospital admission, this figure is only a fraction of the actual injuries," says Virginia S. Boyce, executive director of the NSPB.

"Punks, sparklers, firecrackers, bottle rockets, M-80s and the like all fireworks endanger the eyes. They may seem harmless, but even sparklers burn at heat exceeding 1,500 degrees F," Mrs. Boyce said.

For many years, the Society has urged that fireworks be limited to licensed public displays. Although this is the law in 28 states, fireworks are still widely used.

The Society directs its warning particularly to parents, since children are most often the victims of fireworks injuries.

"Those 19 and under suffered nearly two-thirds of the injuries last year," Mrs. Boyce noted, adding that "the victims are frequently innocent bystanders."

Keep your children away from all fireworks and from anyone who uses them. They may look like fun to youngsters, but fireworks are explosives that can cause injuries and even blindness.

Enjoy the holidays safely. Mrs. Boyce concluded, "by viewing the fireworks in public exhibitions."

Toy project aids Children's Home

August "Augie" Sacadat and Arthur L. "Pete" Metcalf have agreed to serve as co-chairmen for the Knights of Columbus toy fund for the third consecutive year.

In their first year as co-chairmen, they visited the Catholic Children's Home in Alton to determine what types of toys would best satisfy the needs of the children there.

After consulting with Father Quigley, superintendent of the home and of the Catholic Charities organization, Sacadat and Metcalf decided that athletic equipment would best suit the needs of the children, since many toys are donated to Catholic Charities and a portion of the home's budget is for toys.

Last year, the Knights of Columbus had several boxes of toys left over from their annual Christmas party. Chairman of the Yule party, Mike Modruski, joined with Sacadat and Metcalf in donating the toys to Catholic Charities for distribution to needy children.

Thirty years ago, the Knights used $200 to purchase a dozen regulation soft balls, six bats, two volleyballs and a net, six baseballs, two soccer balls, two basketballs, two footballs, an air pump and other sports items.

Children residing at the home have expressed their pleasure at having new sports equipment for games, recalling that they formerly had to practice with used and badly-worn equipment, the co-chairmen noted.

The program also has prompted the administration of the home to enter their teams in local and state competition and the teams have earned 12 trophies in the last three years.

The Knights of Columbus Council 1098 plans to continue the tradition of giving sports equipment to the home and annually meets with Father Quigley, who is a former Granite City resident, and with other administrators to determine what types of equipment are needed, particularly during the Christmas season.

This year, the home needs new gymnastics mats, so Sacadat and Metcalf have begun raising funds and pricing mats.

Peace Corps volunteers needed

To the Editor:

It's becoming clear to Americans that we don't live in a country that is isolated from the rest of the world, and what affects people on one side of the globe ultimately affects us in some way as well.

We can't afford the luxury of sticking our heads in the sand and hoping that the things that cause world problems like poverty, hunger and disease will go away.

It's up to us to keep informed and, if possible, to become positively involved with the affairs of the world. One way to get involved and make the world a better place is by joining the Peace Corps.

The Peace Corps, started in 1961 in a spirit of optimism, still offers people a chance to do something in the American tradition of neighbor helping neighbor.

Unlike band-aid solutions which throw money at a problem when it gets big enough, Peace Corps volunteers work for long-term change at the grassroots, people-to-people level.

Instead of imposing American solutions on problems of other nations, Peace Corps volunteers use technology appropriate to another culture and work within the norms of that culture. To date, the Peace Corps has been America's most effective foreign aid program.

Volunteers, who come from all walks of life, have given people from other lands a better picture of America and it really is that tourists or officials who tend to be isolated from the citizens of a country.

The friendships the volunteers make are lasting. And the knowledge they bring back and share with us endures frustration and hardship, and retain a sense of humor like the pioneers once did in this country.

The Peace Corps seeks people of many backgrounds from farmers to blue-collar workers; from college grads to graduates with years of experience to offer.

Needed most are people with knowledge in fields which the Peace Corps works, like health, farming, nutrition, sanitation, construction and teaching.

Volunteers serve for two-year stints, and while they are in service, their basic needs like food, lodging, clothing and miscellaneous expenses are taken care of by a living allowance.

After service, they receive $3,000 to help them readjust to the new culture and shock of returning home.

Those wanting information about the Peace Corps and how to apply can write: Peace Corps Recruiting Office, Two Gateway Center, Suite 318, 4th and State, Kansas City, Mo. 64101.

Since its inception, over 90,000 Americans have served in the Peace Corps, and every one of them has changed.

Volunteers have gained a great deal of knowledge about the world outside the U.S.; understanding of different cultural values; self-reliance and maturity; a chance for one of the best adventures left; and an understanding of poverty.

The idealism and goals of the Peace Corps are driving force and remain the same: to help promote world peace and friendship, to help developing people meet temporary needs for trained people, and to help promote mutual understanding between the peoples of the United States and the third world.

Over the years, the Peace Corps volunteer has been a shining light of what is best in America and the principles that America stands for.

Parade, big crowds

To the Editor:

We of Ainal Temple, 8,750 strong, want to thank you for your interest in seeing that the events of our annual circus were discussed in the columns of your newspaper. Because you recognize the work of the Shrine and the part it plays in the communities of Southern Illinois, such as the 38 children sent from Granite City last year, you have helped us to continue to let the public know of our philanthropy.

Our parade was a smashing success and we feel it was the largest crowd ever to watch those that passed in review.

Our float contestants, the fine bands and all the other non-Shrine groups are to be applauded for their help. Our own units enjoyed the applause of the crowds and were so pleased with the fine turnout.

Again we say "Thank you" to all on the Press-Record who gave of their time and energy to help make our circus a great success.

Privacy right being undermined

To the Editor:

Novelist George Orwell, in his book "1984," envisioned a frightening society completely controlled and programmed by an ominous "Big Brother."

The chilling government power he pictured so vividly is closer to reality than we care to think.

An extensive four-year study of data collection systems has uncovered 858 federally operated data banks, all in the business of scrutinizing and recording the intimate details of our private lives.

Even more unnerving is a scheme devised by the General Services Administration to tie all these computer links into a single network giving government agencies universal access to unlimited information.

Under the guise of a Social Security number, all of us have become conditioned to pouring out the facts of our daily affairs.

Few Americans could have imagined the pervasive use of what started out simply as ID numbers for a pension system. Today, a person can hardly get a credit card, driver's license or collected data without this Social Security tag.

That single number could produce 20 pages of personal data on every man, woman or child in the U.S. within 30 seconds, from the network of computer banks.

There has even been the suggestion that in the future, Social Security numbers be assigned at birth so the ID number may be used to "Keep track" of an individual from the cradle to the grave.

An invasion of privacy doesn't stop there. Review boards for Medicare and Medicaid have been given authority to probe the health history of any patient in the U.S.

Mandatory questions on census forms demand sensitive facts about us all — education, financial, marital or employment records, and lifestyle.

Too many federal agencies have become compulsive personal fact-gatherers regardless of the usefulness of the collected data.

These extensive dossiers often contain erroneous and irrelevant information used indiscriminately without the individual's knowledge.

Government agencies swap information, and the IRS even sells its official registration lists of gun collectors to mail order firearms companies at one tenth of a cent per name.

I agree with Mr. Justice Brandeis, who once said, "The greatest danger to liberty lies in invidious encroachment by men of zeal, well-meaning, but without understanding."

We must balance the fervor of individuals who would put everything on computer tape with the Constitutional guarantees of our cherished right to privacy.

Rights fight—Vietnam, legislature

To the Editor:

Every national ERA poll has shown that the majority of Americans support the Equal Rights Amendment. Every state ERA poll has shown that the majority of Illinoisans support the amendment.

Polls also show that when the text of the amendment is read to people, an even greater majority supports ERA.

The text of Section 1 is, "Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex."

Section 2 says that Congress has power to enforce the amendment by enforcing the provision for Constitutional amendments. Section 3 says that the amendment will take effect two years after the date of ratification.

In the Illinois House of Representatives on Wednesday, June 18, a total of 102 representatives voted for the Equal Rights Amendment; 71 voted against it. The ERA "won" by 31 votes.

It is obvious that the vast majority of our legislators also supports ERA.

No previous amendment to the U.S. Constitution was ratified by a three-fifths majority in Illinois. This requirement was not in effect for any other amendment.

The three-fifths majority requirement was not in effect for any other amendment.

The three-fifths majority requirement serves to suppress the will of the majority of the people and is an inveterate, regressive rule. No one can honestly say that a system which is thwarting the will of the people is effectively representing those people.

So now, 11 years after coming home from the Vietnam war, I find myself in another fight for human rights, this time not as a Marine, but as a husband and father of two.

I am currently an active supporter of the Equal Rights Amendment.

Young owner finds success in racing

By JOHN SCULLY

Allegria De Deanna, the only horse to win three stakes races this year at Fairmount Park, has earned her Spanish name.

Allegria De Deanna, meaning joy of Deanna, has given much pleasure to her owner, Deanna Lynn Jiles. Deanna Lynn is 12 years old and seems unspooled by her three-year-old filly's success.

When asked what her classmates thought about her ownership of a multiple stakes winner, she replied, "Most don't know that I own a horse." It would be difficult to find any other owner who would be so modest about owning an added money winner.

Allegria De Deanna is not the first horse to be named after her young owner.

Miss D Lynn, who set a track record here several years ago, was the first. The record-setter is now a broodmare and has a Speak John filly at her side, while being in foal to Fluorescent Light.

Deanna Lynn Jiles' father, Doug, is in the oil business in Oklahoma City and says that his daughter is equally at home around horses or in an oil field.

She likes horseback riding but doesn't have any aspirations to become a jockey.

Despite her young age, Deanna Lynn is quite level headed; she is saving the money that Allegria De Deanna has earned.

Whatever the future might hold for her, Deanna has definitely started out successfully in racing.

Area rain is now 9 inches below normal

Thundershowers that moved in late Monday afternoon and again during the night brought .70 of an inch of rain to the Quad-City area, but still failed to bring rainfall near the normal area rainfall.

With Monday's rain, the area has had a total of 9.92 inches of rainfall during the year thus far, or 9.05 inches less than the normal of 19.07 inches for the first half of the year.

So far this month there has been 1.25 inches of rain compared to a normal of 4.27 inches for the month. March was the only month this year in which rainfall was greater than the normal fall, with precipitation of 2.86 inches compared with a normal of 2.47 inches.

All of Worthen Park now in Granite City

The Granite City Council unanimously approved the annexation of 10 acres of Worthen Park on Maryville Road into the city at its regular meeting Tuesday night.

A letter from Park District Attorney Randall Robertson was read asking that the eastern 10-acre tract of the park be annexed into the city. This will place the entire 20-acre park area in the city.

Approval of the annexation came on a motion by Second Ward Alderman Fred "Pat" Schuman.

The park is now the site of a lighted softball field and two practice fields, a small concession stand with restroom facilities and a playground.

Long-range plans for the park include several soccer fields, tennis courts, additional picnic tables and the possibility of a small retention pond with landscaping. A parking lot has been put in recently to accommodate the increasing number of visitors to the park.

He also was elected to Alpha Epsilon Delta, a pre-medical honor society.

In his junior year, he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa and graduated Bronze Tablet, summa cum laude.

He chose Northwestern Medical School to further his medical career, and was elected to Alpha Omega Alpha in his junior year. This honor society is a national medical society composed of

Inadequate U.S. oil stockpile

Wall Street Journal—For over a year now, the Carter administration has been under pressure from Saudi Arabia, Europe and Japan, has refrained from adding any oil to the U.S. strategic petroleum reserve.

As a result, the strategic reserve, the government's only readily usable store of the fuel needed to run the U.S. economy and supply American military forces, holds barely enough oil to keep the country in business for two weeks in the event of a halt in oil imports.

What's more, the White House and congressional budget committees have dropped from the new budget nearly all funds earmarked to buy oil for the reserve, should the U.S. want to start filling it again.

The budget doesn't envision new purchases for the stockpile until mid-1981.

These policies have been pursued at the very time when world events, notably the kidnapping of Americans in Iran and the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan, are drawing the U.S. more deeply than ever into conflicts that threaten to disrupt the flow of oil from the Persian Gulf.

The president's willingness to be cowed by self-seeking foreign governments and to forego the strategic stockpiling of oil could dangerously limit America's freedom of action, both diplomatic and military.

It could turn out to be one of Mr. Carter's more serious foreign-policy mistakes.

Recently, pressure has been rising in Congress, and in Mr. Carter's own Energy Department, to resume the filling of the reserve, regardless of the opposition abroad.

A bipartisan group of conservative and liberal senators, including Democrats Henry Jackson of Washington and Bill Bradley of New Jersey and Republicans Robert Dole of Kansas and Mark Hatfield of Oregon, is pressing various bills to revive the reserve.

Other efforts are under way in the House, with the backing of that chamber's principal energy legislator John Dingell, a Michigan Democrat.

Some of these measures would provide the necessary funds for further stockpiling. Others would order the resumption of oil purchases for the reserve.

Still others would require that oil produced by federally owned oil fields at Elk Hills, Calif., be diverted to the reserve instead of being sold to oil companies.

Sen. Bradley charges that "we lack the political will" to fill the reserve, and Sen. Dole asks, "If we know to Saudi pressure on this, how can we realistically be expected to defend our own interests elsewhere?"

When Pres. Carter took office in 1977, he set a goal of placing 250 million barrels in the reserve by the end of 1978, and one billion barrels by 1985.

But his new Energy Department bungled the job, amassing just 70 million barrels by the end of 1978.

Early last year, when the Iranian revolution suddenly slashed world oil production, new purchases for the reserve were halted.

Oil trickling in under prior contracts pushed the reserve's size to 92 million barrels, where it stands today.

By late last year, a small world oil surplus was developing, but the administration had erected added barriers to new purchases for the reserve.

Last summer, it agreed at the Tokyo economic summit to consult with other industrial nations before resuming the stockpiling in order to avoid undue pressure on world supplies and prices.

In the fall, U.S. government sources revealed that Saudi Arabia was privately threatening to cut its oil production, pushing world prices higher, if purchases for the reserve were resumed.

The Saudi threat was prompting a U.S. agreement to "consult" on the issue.

One high administration energy official says consultation with the Saudis has been needed because, if new U.S. stockpiling leads to a Saudi production cut, "you've kind of killed the golden goose. You've got to look at the expected consequences of your action."

But former Energy

Secretary James Schlesinger, who left office last August, says ruefully, "It was a mistake to have allowed the issue to become whether we could fill the reserve."

He now wishes, he says, that in his final months of office a token flow of oil into the reserve had been maintained, just to preserve the stockpiling principle.

"The United States established the reserve for the national security," Mr. Schlesinger declares.

"We do not provide a lien on the national security to any nation."

The Saudi threat, he claims, was mainly a statement of "ritualistic" opposition, and could safely have been ignored. By asking Saudi permission, he asserts, Saudi opposition was guaranteed.

Mr. Schlesinger's successor as Energy secretary, Charles Duncan, last breached the issue with the Saudis in March, and was predictably rebuffed.

He and his advisers have also floated a plan by which the Saudis would hold to high production rates while we resume stockpiling, in return for guarantees that the strategic reserve wouldn't be used against them. But that idea has been received coolly, both in Saudi Arabia and in the White House.

Mr. Duncan is now expected to urge Pres. Carter to resume filling the reserve this summer, with oil either from Elk Hills or foreign sources.

To help him make his case, he has hired Abram Chayes, an international law expert from Harvard, as an advisor.

Chayes says, "Obviously, it's desirable to encourage the Saudis to maintain high production, and to withhold any objection to, or even approve, our filling of the reserve. But those aren't necessarily preconditions to going ahead."

The debate over the issue is expected to be joined in late June or early July, when representatives of the Energy, Treasury and State departments and the White House staff make a recommendation to the president.

That time period has been carefully selected to come after the scheduled early June meeting of OPEC and the late June summit meeting of Western leaders. The time coincides roughly with the date when new contracts would normally be let for commercial sale of oil from the Elk Hills Naval Oil Reserve.

"That will be a reasonable time to look at the issue," says a top administration official. "All of this stuff has got to be thought through again. It's entirely possible that the policy may change, but it's too early to tell."

Opposition to resumption of stockpiling is expected to come from the State Department, which may be fearful of upsetting the Saudis.

The Saudi government insists its oil reserves can be considered as the West's strategic stockpile, and so the U.S. storage program isn't needed.

Saudi officials complain that, since purchases for the U.S. stockpile add to demand and to world oil price pressures, they undercut Saudi efforts to moderate and unify OPEC's oil pricing.

What's more, the Saudis say, they'd have little interest in maintaining high rates of production, just so the U.S. could stockpile more oil.

The State Department may also argue that it's bad diplomacy to resume purchases for the reserve and thus add to world demand and prices, just when we're urging allied nations to boycott Iranian oil, a move that forces them to seek other supplies.

Some Treasury and Budget officials fear that spending $1.5 billion or $2 billion a year to buy oil for the reserve could wreck the "balanced budget" currently being passed together in Congress.

And if oil from the Elk Hills field is placed in reserve instead of sold to oil companies, the budget will be hurt further by a $1 billion revenue loss.

The trouble with these arguments isn't just that they pale before the national security need for an adequate oil stockpile. The trouble is that most are simply disingenuous.

Saudi Arabia, for instance, despite its high-minded talk about moderation and order in oil pricing, really opposes the strategic reserve for one, obvious reason: A large U.S. oil stockpile would blunt or even negate the feudal kingdom's only means of having a serious impact in world affairs—the threat to withhold its oil.

The Saudis have been notably unsuccessful lately at selling "moderation" in OPEC; even without U.S. stockpiling last year, world oil prices doubled.

What's more, their current high production rate isn't being maintained solely to aid the West; it's also intended to shore up Saudi Arabia's fading power within OPEC.

With or without American stockpiling, most U.S. oil analysts believe, internal political pressures will force the kingdom's rulers to cut daily oil output sooner or later.

Our European and Japanese allies themselves now possess bulging stockpiles of oil and oil products. Their inventories were amassed last year in a panic buying spree that helped drive prices sky-high, while the U.S. was holding back.

As for the budget-balancing problems posed by a renewal of reserve oil purchases, Mr. Carter could quickly propose that the stockpiling be financed from receipts from his oil import fee, if it survives court challenges; the White House says it isn't now counting on the fee as a means of balancing the budget.

By waiting so long to resume oil stockpiling, Pres. Carter has, ironically, missed the best opportunity to ease the government back into buying oil with the minimum impact on demand and prices.

World oil markets appear to be tightening, with spot-market prices rising after several months in which supplies outran demand. Foreign governments are bound to argue that this is the worst time to start stockpiling again.

But the President's task this summer will be to brush aside all these arguments about the oil market and the budget.

The main issue—maybe the only issue—before him, should be the nation's need for a secure emergency store of oil as the world heads into a period of struggle over the control of oil production, a struggle few now doubt will be dangerous and tough.

It will be interesting to see whether Jimmy Carter can summon up the purposefulness to order that the strategic reserve be filled again, over the opposition of contemptuous and jealous men in Arabia, Europe and Japan.

II Corinthians 5:17
"Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature."

Accepting Christ as our Saviour is one of the greatest things that will ever occur in our lives. We become new creatures in Him. What really happens is our spirits are born again. Our emotions change. Our thinking will change. Our desires and motivation will change. This is a statement of fact.

Although circumstances around us may not change, we do! We pray with confidence. We believe God will answer our prayers. And He does. He should. We are born again. We are His sons and daughters. We are new creatures in Christ.

BELMORE FACILITY of the First Granite City National Bank will have five lobby tellers in addition to these six drive-through lanes at the rear of the existing building at Nameoki Road and Mill Avenue. The outermost lane will be designed to accommodate tall vehicles and five tellers will be located in a prefabricated building which will be placed on the foundation at far left. The lobby and operations area are located in the former Sherman-Williams paint store, Singer sewing center and Dayspring Book and Gift Store. A late July opening is planned.

New bank facility for 1st National Work is well underway at First Granite City National Bank's Belmore Facility.

As workers demolished a service station on Nameoki Road at Mill Avenue last week, construction crews were busy behind the existing shopping center building preparing for the pouring of concrete at the facility's drive-through lanes.

In addition to the six new drive-through lanes, one especially for taller vehicles, there will be five tellers in the facility's lobby.

The Belmore Facility will be able to duplicate all services of the downtown bank except that no loan applications will be taken.

The 4,000 square feet indoor area includes teller space, three "new account" desks, an office for the facility's manager and an operations area.

The bank is in the area formerly occupied by the Sherman-Williams paint store, the Singer sewing center and the Dayspring Book and Gift Store.

Motorists will enter the drive-through facility from Mill Avenue and will be routed away from the area via three improved exit routes.

The demolition of the service station in front of the new facility will add 47 parking places to the existing lot. Also, the grass area behind the shopping center from a point about 120 feet from Mill Avenue to Johnson Road will be paved allowing more parking, wider through-lanes and easier access to the center.

About 16 persons will be employed at the Belmore Facility when it opens in late July.

Lobby hours for the facility will be from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Thursday; 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 3:45 to 7 p.m. on Friday, and 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday.

The drive-through facility will be open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Wednesday; 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Thursday; 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Friday, and 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday.

Seek U.S. funds for sewer rehabilitation plan

It will cost an estimated $2,873,000 to make adequate repairs to the Granite City sanitary sewers, experts told a handful of people attending a public hearing on a grant for the work prior to Tuesday night's Granite City Council meeting.

Officials of the Sverdrup & Parcel engineering firm said that extensive televising and grouting is needed in many of the sanitary sewers and several sections need replaced. Repairs to quite a few manholes also are recommended.

The engineers estimated that about 30,000 feet of sewers need televising, grouting and pressure testing and another 5,626 feet will have to be completely replaced to halt groundwater seeping into the system and causing additional damage.

However, they noted, a federal grant will provide 75 percent of the needed funds and the remainder should be available over the next three to five years from the city's budget for wastewater collection, so it may be possible to repair the sewers without a substantial increase in the sewer use fees paid by city residents.

They estimated that televising inspections inside the sewers and grouting leaking joints will cost $406,000; replacing badly damaged sewers will cost $2,126,000, engineering fees for the work will be $64,000, administration of the repair program will cost another $64,000 and $213,000 should be set aside for contingencies.

Of the $2,873,000 total, a federal grant, if approved, would pay $2,155,000, leaving the city's share $718,000, they explained.

The city has experienced sewer failures since 1961, but most of the breaks occurred during the high water table in 1973 and 1974, they said.

Sverdrup & Parcel began its study of the city's sewers in 1975 and the first grant application for the repairs was filed in 1976. Five grant applications have been rejected since that time on the basis that federal authorities did not believe the damage was flood related.

The studies "clearly show that the previous problems were caused by the high water table, the experts told those in the audience," according to Bob Barber, project engineer for Sverdrup & Parcel. He also said that fact was "amply proven in previous reports and confirmed by this report."

There also is evidence that large quantities of water leak into the Nameoki area (east of Nameoki Road) sewers during each rain or period of high ground water, Barber said.

He said the Sverdrup & Parcel study considered the cost-effectiveness of three plans to correct the problem. The costs of replacing all the sewers or of lining the existing sewers with smaller pipes were found to be "prohibitive," he added.

The only other plan, called the "no action" plan, also was unacceptable for environmental and health reasons, he contended. Therefore, the combination of grouting sewers and replacing only the badly-damaged sewers was decided upon as the most cost-effective method of repair, the audience was told.

All of the cost estimates are based upon the use of city equipment and personnel to do the work, Barber added.

Glenn Hollis, the only person attending the hearing who was not a city official, newspaperman or engineer, contended the sewers were installed improperly and questioned whether grouting them would be "attacking the problem and not the cause?"

Barber agreed that pressure grouting would not end all problems with the sewers, but stated, "It should eliminate 80 percent of the problems or better," if a continuous maintenance program is followed once the sewer repairs are completed.

City Engineer Monroe Brewer said that when the sewers were installed in 1955 and 1956, the water table was much lower, but has climbed since that time. However, there was evidence the water table in 1949 and 1950, five years before the sewers were installed, was higher than the depth proposed for the sewers, he contended.

He agreed that the proposed method of grouting most of the sewers is the best and added, "We can do it without tearing up everyone's lawn."

A report explaining the basics of the Sverdrup & Parcel study and the problem was given to everyone at the public hearing, which was held in the city hall of Granite City. The text of that report follows.

Granite City has experienced sanitary sewer system failures since 1961 as a result of high groundwater levels and leaking pipe joints. Sand and silt have washed into the sewers and resulted in cave-ins, displacement or breaking of pipes and potential roadway collapses.

In 1975, Sverdrup & Parcel performed a study to define all existing and potential sewer failures in the Nameoki area of Granite City, develop solutions for problem areas, and prepare preliminary cost estimates to upgrade the sewer system. As a result of this study, the city purchased equipment to televise the sewers and to repair defective pipe joints by pressure grouting.

To obtain federal funds for the sewer rehabilitation program, in 1976 the city applied for and received a grant to prepare a 201 Facility Plan for the sewer system. The 201 Facility Plan describes existing and projected conditions and problems in the study area, develops alternatives to solve the problems and identifies the best alternative from an economic and environmental standpoint.

As part of the 201 Facility Plan, an Infiltration-Inflow and Sewer System Evaluation Survey Report was prepared in conformance with federal regulations.

The Granite City sewer system is divided into two districts, the Old Town area and the Nameoki area. The Old Town area is roughly defined as the portion of the sewer system west of Nameoki Road, while the Nameoki area lies east of Nameoki Road.

Sewers in the Old Town area were constructed in the early 1900's to carry both stormwater and wastewater.

Sewers in the Nameoki area were constructed in the 1950's to transport wastewater exclusively.

In general, sewers in the Old Town area were found to be in good shape, although several locations were pinpointed that require complete sewer replacement. In addition, some manholes require maintenance work, primarily to repair loose mortar joints.

Sewers in the Nameoki area were found to have more serious problems. From inspection and rehabilitation work to date, it is estimated that 18 percent of the remaining sewer system, or 20,000 feet, must be pressure grouted, and an additional 5,626 feet of sewer pipe must be completely replaced. In addition, maintenance work is required to repair manholes in the area.

The total estimated cost of the project is $2,873,000. The federal share of the costs is $2,155,000, or 75 percent of the total. The local share of the costs is $718,000, or 25 percent of the total.

It is anticipated that finances for the local share of costs will come from the city's budget for wastewater collection, and no substantial change in the user cost will be required, the report concludes.

Pontoon rejects police car bid

The Pontoon Beach Village Board Tuesday night opened one bid for a new police car, but rejected it since the bid was for a full-sized car, not the intermediate size for which bids had been sought.

The only bid received was from Bo Beckman Ford of Collinsville for $7,441, minus a $400 rebate from Ford. The board voted to readvertise for bids on an intermediate-sized auto.

The board also accepted a proposal from Gary Tedford, agent for Prudential Insurance Co., on major medical insurance for all village employees. Some dissatisfaction was voiced about the village's former plan, so the board decided to seek a new policy.

The village police committee will meet in the near future with the village attorney to draft an ordinance clarifying benefits to which employees of the police department are entitled, including sick leave, personal days off, vacation policy and other benefits, the board was told.

The ordinance should be ready for board consideration by mid-July. It covers both police and civilian employees in the police department.

Evelyn Bowles renamed to state election group

Evelyn Bowles, county clerk of Madison County, has been reappointed to the State Board of Elections Advisory Committee, Executive Director Ronald Michaelson announced Wednesday.

The SBE Advisory Committee, consisting of leading Illinois county clerks and city election commissioners, meets periodically with the Board of Elections staff to discuss and review legislation and other election issues of mutual concern.

Commenting on Miss Bowles' appointment to the panel, Michaelson said:

"Evelyn is an experienced and respected local election authority. In fulfilling its role as supervisor of all Illinois elections, the State Board of Elections benefits immensely from the advice and direction provided by Evelyn and her colleagues on the Advisory Committee."

Miss Bowles has been county clerk since December 1, 1974, Michaelson noted, and also serves as first vice-president of the Illinois Association of County Clerks and Records.

Sunnen receives 'A' inspection

Camp Sunnen, the Boy Scout camp of the Cahokia Mount Council, with offices in Granite City, received an "A" rating, Tuesday from Jack Ward, a summer camp inspector of the North Central BSA Region.

Camp Sunnen has received "A" ratings since it opened in 1953.

Local scout leaders at camp during the inspection were Bob Moske, Henry Heilrick, Gene Grimaud, Jim Johns and William Monical scout executive.

Sunnen is located near Potomac, Mo. in the Clark National Forest.

Dismiss suit on coke ovens

A lawsuit by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency against Granite City Steel coke oven operations has been dismissed, and the company has paid $48,000 to the state as settlement of a dispute whether reconstructed ovens were being operated prior to issuance of a permit.

The agreement announced Tuesday in Springfield ends all pending litigation. The attorney general's office had sought $10,000 on each of two counts plus $1,000 a day, a potential grand total of about $90,000, and halting of oven usage.

Not affected by the action is the question of whether the IEPA can seek penalties through the courts rather than through the Illinois Pollution Control Board.

The company continues to contend that the agency cannot obtain court-assessed penalties, while the IEPA says it can seek remedies through either the courts or the IPCB. But there is no current suit to test the issue.

Fitness dance, exercise classes

The Tri-City Area YMCA has announced that Fitness Fantasia VIII will begin Monday, June 30. This series of aerobic dance routines is new to the area, and will meet on Mondays and Wednesdays from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. or 7 p.m. to 8 p.m.

"Fitness Fantasia is fun, exciting way to achieve total fitness," said Program Director Lucy Tueth.

She said all movements have been carefully selected to offer a total fitness program which includes completely choreographed exercise routines to music, tips on how to lose weight and stay trim, and ways to determine individual training zones for fitness.

The cost for YMCA members is $12 for the first four weeks, or $20 for the complete eight-week class. Non-members' fees are $18 and $30.

Those registering for the first four weeks who wish to continue with the class may have the fee pro-rated and pay the difference. Those seeking more information on Fitness Fantasia are to call Lucy Tueth at 876-7200.

Schools to hire business official

The Granite City Board of Education made tentative plans Tuesday night to employ a business administrator at a special board meeting Saturday.

The new official will succeed Tully A. Heubner, present director of business affairs for the Granite City school district, who on Aug. 1 will go to the Carl Sandburg Community College, Galesburg, as director of business affairs for the college.

Heubner and his successor here will work together during July on the tentative 1980-81 school budget.

Interviews have been held with eight applicants for the business position.

Also scheduled for a decision at Saturday's school board meeting is the amount of administrative salaries for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The board will convene at 7 a.m. Saturday to hold interviews with a number of candidates for a school district personnel administrative position.

At Tuesday night's session, the board decided on yearly raises ranging from $1,024 to $1,149 for executive secretaries, and a $2,500 raise for the secretary to the superintendent.

Two teachers were employed for the 1980-81 year—Elaine Parish as a middle primary teacher at Logan School and Cheryl Gertsch as a Granite City High School South home economics teacher.

The school district now has called back eight of the 15 teachers honorably dismissed this month. The dismissals stem from a reduction in the size of the faculty, through attrition, it is hoped to recall them to duty effective this fall.

Carol Ann Slesener resigned as a South home economics teacher due to family responsibilities. Mildred O'Neil is retiring as a Wilson School cafeteria worker.

Virginia Owens, a matron at GCHS North, was granted an illness leave of absence from July through the end of the calendar year.

Four extracurricular assignments were added to those previously approved by the board.

Sonya Adkerson will serve as counselor coordinator at GCHS South. Intramural programs will be directed by Sharon McDonough at Grigsby Junior High School, John Hutchings at Logan School and Barry Schurder at Nameeki School.

The administration was authorized to work with attorneys and insurers in defending against a circuit court suit by David Partney, a board member. Defendants are another board member, Donald Stucke, plus the school board and Stucke's wife, Lucy, a school secretary.

The suit alleges it is a conflict of interest for a board member's wife to work for the district. She began work prior to the start of her husband's board service.

'Y' gymnastics plan for youths

The Tri-City Area YMCA has announced that a new summer gymnastics session for youth, 6-16, will begin Monday, June 30. The two-week sessions will meet on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 3:45 to 4:45 (beginners) and 4:30 to 5:15 (advanced).

Theresa McFalls will teach both classes, which will offer instruction in tumbling, parallel bars, balance beam and vault exercises.

Cost for each session is $2 for YMCA members and $9.50 for non-member. New sessions will begin every two weeks. To register, Quad-Cityans may stop by the "Y," 2001 Edison Ave., Granite City, or call 876-7200.

Medical degree to David Baumberger

Dr. David W. Baumberger is one of 74 new physicians who graduated from the Southern Illinois University School of Medicine this month in Springfield.

He will enter an internal medicine residency at St. Louis University Medical Center this summer.

Dr. Baumberger's parents are Roy and Patricia Baumberger, 2418 Woodlawn Ave., Granite City. His bachelor's degree in microbiology was earned at the University of Illinois in Urbana. He attended Granite City High School South.

While at the SIU School of Medicine, Dr. Baumberger was social chairman for two years and was active in intramural sports. He worked at the Illinois State Medical Society high blood pressure screening exhibit at the Illinois State Fair in August, 1979.

Commencement exercises for the school's sixth graduation class were held at the Prairie Capital Convention Center. The convocation address was delivered by Congressman Paul Simon of Illinois' 24th District.

The doctor of medicine degree was conferred by SIU Acting President Hiram H. Lesar. Diplomats were presented by Richard H. Moy, M.D., dean and provost of the School of Medicine.

Chiropractic office expands, modernizes

PEOPLE

The office and treatment facilities of Dr. E.L. Strotheide, doctor of chiropractic, have undergone an expansion and modernization program which has been in the works for almost two years.

The obvious changes are the exterior of the building at 3412 Nameoki Road. Motorists on the street can see the sleek and modern architectural design blending the rough texture of rock and copper-mirrored wrap-around windows.

He attended the University of Illinois and the four-year curriculum at Logan Chiropractic College in St. Louis. He practiced for one year with Dr. E.W. Walton in Granite City then opened his own practice in Madison. He remained there for two years.

The present building combined his chiropractic office and home where he and his wife, Connie, and daughter, Cindi, lived for the first three years. His increasing practice and the birth of his son, Jay, forced the family to move from the location to another home making way for the remodeling and expansion of the office facilities.

The building now contains seven treatment rooms, an X-ray department with darkroom, a bookkeeping department and reception area in addition to Dr. Strotheide's personal office.

A special feature of the chiropractic office is an X-ray rapid processor which decreases the waiting time between the taking of an X-ray and the results from four hours to a mere 2½ minutes.

This unit is similar to those used in hospitals which those doctors of chiropractic have access to.

The use of bright colors in the reception area and throughout the office is a break from the expected traditional pastels or dark shades.

Dr. Strotheide is presently continuing his education at Logan College being enrolled in a 3-year course in chiropractic orthopedics, which is taught on the weekends.

Dr. Strotheide "reads" a spinal X-ray in his personal office. The office has been remodeled in a non-traffic area of the building to afford privacy.

Flaming Arrow Patrol Scouts, Troop 7 of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, invited Cobra and Panther Patrols to their honor patrol outing activity.

Flaming Arrow Patrol won recognition as Honor Patrol of Spring, 1980. The event marked the second time Flaming Arrow was honored during the charter year.

Scouts earn points for their patrol by: patrol members being present at troop meetings and activities, wearing of scout uniform, earning skill awards and merit badges, recruiting new scouts and advancing in scouting.

The Honor Patrol Program in Scouting helps keep patrol and troop spirit high and provides healthy competition between patrols. Troop 7 hosted the patrol flag before leaving and on return from the Honor Patrol Outing activity to St. Louis. Scouts were especially treated to a pantomime show at the Arch while waiting to board the Huck Finn. Scouts also visited the Sports Hall of Fame at Busch Stadium.

A current project of Troop 7 consists of decorating the Troop's trailer. Star Scout Reuben Garcia is painting the patrol patch, scout emblem and skill awards on the trailer. Scout Karl Markovich is printing the joining words.

2 steal used car

A man about 30 and a woman about 18 took a 1977 Trans-Am from Stearns Auto Sales, 3711 Nameoki Road, for a test drive at 9 a.m. Monday and failed to return the car, which was found abandoned in St. Louis County about 10:40 p.m. Monday. The license plates are missing.

The auto belongs to Eddie Cardin, 3811 Park Lane, who was attempting to sell it through Stearns.

The couple who took the car drove a 1972 Cadillac with Missouri license plates to the Stearns lot and left it there. Police are attempting to determine the identity of the owner.

Increase in veterans' pensions

Almost 10,000 Illinois veterans and their survivors will be getting large Veterans Administration pension checks on July 1 — the result of a 14.3 percent increase in the government's cost of living index.

Donald Ramsey, director of the VA's regional office in Chicago, said about 100,000 Illinois VA pensioners are affected in some way by the cost of living index.

Pensions are paid to veterans totally and permanently disabled from circumstances unrelated to their military service, Ramsey said.

"They are paid also to survivors of veterans who are in need. Unlike compensation paid to those disabled because of military service, pensions are affected by income from other sources.

"The 9,917 who will get increases for June (and July 1) are those who have switched to the VA pension plan inaugurated by Congress in 1979.

"The plan links VA pension rates to adjustments in Social Security payments. Before the change, an individual's pension was subject to reduction each time Social Security increased.

Those pensioners who chose to stay under the pension rules in effect before 1979 will not receive the July 1 increase. They will, however, avoid the reduction in pension that the Social Security increase would have triggered before the legislation went into effect.

"For these pensioners, the 14.3 percent Social Security increase triggered a similar increase in the maximum amount of income they could receive from other sources and still remain eligible for VA pension.

Pensions for veterans and survivors under the "old plan" remain fixed and payable at the rates in effect in 1978. But those rates are protected against reduction that would otherwise result from cost-of-living increases in their income from other sources.

Ramsey said "old plan" recipients may request transfer to the "improved plan" at any time. The agency will review each application to advise applicants to choose the plan which works to their personal advantage.

With the June increase (payable in the July 1 checks), a veteran with one dependent and no other income will receive $5,844. For each additional dependent, the added amount is $755 per year.

POPULAR INFANT Mary Elizabeth June is held by the president of St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Sister Mary Thomas.

Some wait 5 years to adopt

A shortage of children eligible for adoption has been spotlighted by widespread public interest in Mary Elizabeth June, who was discharged from St. Elizabeth Medical Center last week.

The 9 pound, 7 ounce baby girl had been found abandoned less than a block from SEMC on June 14, only an hour or two following her birth. She was then taken to the emergency room, where she was found to be in good condition.

Sister Mary Thomas, SEMC president, named the baby Mary Elizabeth, adding the last name of June because the baby was born in the month of June.

After the baby's story became known, Mary Elizabeth became a celebrity. SEMC was flooded with phone calls from people who had seen her on television, heard about her on radio or read about her. Most of the calls were from concerned people offering a home for her.

However, by law, the Medical Center was required to release the baby to the Illinois Children and Family Services Department, which placed her in a foster home June 16 until legal procedures can be completed for her adoption.

"Although Mary Elizabeth June is only a few days old, someone has waited a long time for her," a spokesman said.

According to Children and Family Services, there is such a demand for babies to adopt that people often are on a waiting list five years before there is a baby available.

East Bank Players to build theater

East Bank is actively seeking members for all phases of theater activity; from performance to technical to business management. Anyone wishing to contact the group regarding membership, or individuals or groups wishing to make a donation to the building fund, may do so by contacting the group at P.O. Box 432, Granite City, IL, 62040, or by telephoning 931-2853 or 877-8753.

Auditions this weekend for Kaufman play

The East Bank Players will hold auditions for their next production, "You Can't Take It With You," a comedy by George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart, at the Tri-City Area YMCA, 20th Street and Edison Avenue, Saturday and Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m.

The play requires a cast of 12 men and seven women and is tentatively scheduled for eight performances in August.

The plot involves the antics of the Sycamores and their effect on young Alice Sycamore's romance with Tony Kirby, the son of a wealthy businessman.

"East Bank Players is a non-profit organization and anyone who is interested in theater, regardless of experience, is invited to audition."

"Even if you are not interested in being on stage, but would like to be involved, we would like to meet with you at one of the auditions," a spokesman said.

For additional information, Quad-Cityans may call Tim Lipe, 931-2833, or Jerry Tracy, 877-7360.

Tri-City Legionnaires fall to Bethalto

Press-Record

GRANITE CITY (ILL.) PRESS-RECORD, Thursday, June 26, 1980—21

By KEVIN ALLEN
of the Press-Record
BETHALTO — Eldon Warfield was speculating about the future. About how if his Tri-City American Legion baseball team just held on to its lead over Bethalto, Tri-City would take over fourth place of the District 22 North Division. "We'd be seven and six and they (Bethalto) would be seven and seven," Warfield projected. "We'd be in pretty good shape then."

An eight-run Bethalto fifth inning, though, turned Warfield's hope for overtaking Bethalto in the league standings into so much wishful thinking. Tri-City's lead collapsed, and Bethalto went on to a 10-5 win.

"We've got about 10 more league games left," Warfield said. "We could make the playoffs if we win about ten all together."

In order to wind up in the top four teams in the division, though, and qualify for post-season play, Tri-City will have to handle teams tougher than Bethalto.

To do that, Warfield will have to find more effective pitching than last night's Bethalto knocked around four pitchers in its tide-turning fifth.

Tri-City starter John Vrenick saw the first five Bethalto batters he faced reach base. All of them would eventually score, but after Bob Hagerman drove in two runs with a single, Vrenick was lifted in favor of Tom McGowan.

McGowan faced only three batters, allowing a base hit and another run, and leaving the bases loaded for Jody Fenton.

Fenton faced four batters and gave up Bethalto's final three runs of the inning. The big blow came from Scott Acker, who hit a ground-rule double into right-center field and drove in two runs.

Finally, Warfield brought in Mark Clark, who recorded the last two outs in the inning, while facing only one batter.

Bethalto's big inning added eight runs to its two earlier ones and allowed it to roar back from a 5-2 deficit. In the first, Acker led off with a double and scored on Hagerman's single. In the fourth, Hagerman singled and stole second, then scored on Shawn Anderson's sacrifice fly.

Vrenick, while allowing six hits in the first four innings, nevertheless held Bethalto in check, stranding four runners.

Meanwhile, Tri-City stranded nine runners, but heated up through the middle-innings. In the third, (Continued on Page 23)

For the Press-Record
GRANITE CITY — Grey hair is usually the sign of old age. But Eldon Warfield can testify that you don't have to get old to get grey hair. Especially when you're the head coach of the Tri-City American Legion team.

Warfield sprouted a few grey hairs Tuesday as Tri-City went down to the wire with Marissa. Relief pitcher Kevin Cripps pulled the plug on Marissa as he fought his way out of a bases loaded jam in the final frame to give Tri-City a slim 3-2 victory at Granite South field.

The game could have gone in many different directions. "I think the umpires made the difference in the ball game," said Marissa head coach Ken Volbert. "But Tri-City played well. They deserved to win." The umpires made several tough decisions that could have changed the complexion of the game.

In fact, it didn't take long before the umpires were tested. Inning one found Tri-City having jumped out to a quick 2-0 lead on Rich Cope's two RBI single. But on a strange ball, John Linhart, now at bat, was called for obstructing the view of the catcher on a steal attempt by Cope. The umpire called Cope out and let Linhart bat, who promptly ripped a double to right-center.

Two number two occurred in the fourth. Starting pitcher Mark Linhart was throwing a fine game for Tri-City. He played one base runner and building a streak of eight outs in a row. Marissa finally tagged him for a triple. The next batter, Mark Schulte, drilled a ball deep to right field. The ball apparently cleared the fence for a homerun, but the umpire called it a ground rule double. "The homerun really took the life out of us," said Volbert. "A week ago, when it was dry, it might have looked like a double, but as much rain as there has been, no way!"

The call might have taken the life out of Marissa, but the spirit still remained. They threatened in each of the next two innings putting runners in scoring position before Linhart and relief pitcher Jodi Fenton turned them away. "We have been playing good ball," said Warfield. "We got a good performance from Linhart. Normally a catcher, Linhart has been used as a pitcher earlier in the season. "He used to be a pitcher," said Warfield, "and looked strong earlier this season. I was going to start him before this game against Nashville, but I changed my mind at the last second."

Tri-City added a cushion to its already one run lead with an insurance run in the sixth. An occasion which required another gutsy decision by the umpire. Having singled, GRANITE CITY — Four Granite City prep baseball stars have been named to the 1980 Illinois High School Baseball Coaches Association All-St. Louis Area team.

Mike Robertson, Bob Batey and Bob Ford of Granite City North along with Kevin Sykes of Granite City South were named to the elite group.

Robertson, one of the top prep third basemen in Illinois, was also named to the squad last season as a junior, as was Batey, a standout shortstop for Coach Bob Stegemeier's Steelers.

Ford was one of the top outfielders in the area and one of the top batters. Batey led the area in hitting most of the season before finishing second with a .454 average.

Sykes was a solid second baseman for Coach Conrad "Babe" Champion's South Warriors. He batted .346.

Edwardsville, which advanced all the way to the state Class 2A semifinals before bowing out, led with the most players named to the team. First baseman Robert Manville, shortstop Dan Allaria, third baseman Bob McManus, pitchers Vince Broderick and Jim Scheibal and catcher Phil Conreux were the Tigers named to the squad.

Collinsville, the team that knocked Edwardsville out of state competition on its way to the Class 2A championship, had four named to the team. Second baseman Todd Miller, outfielders Mike Hefflin and Vince Plantz and pitcher Mark Campbell were the Kahoks named.

The rest of the players named were: first baseman Bryan Perry (Marissa), outfielder John Pea (Belleville East), outfielders Dan Morrissey and Pat Morrissey (Class 1A state champion Alton Marquette), pitcher Tim Harrowood (Marquette) and catcher Rich Lambert (St. Jacob-Triad).

The 1980 IHBCA All-State Team was also announced. Six Southern Illinois players were named to the squad, which included two first basemen, three second basemen, two shortstops, seven outfielders, two third basemen, four pitchers and two catchers.

Named from Southern Illinois were second baseman Jack Baugher of Egyptian, third baseman McManus of Edwardsville, outfielders Hefflin of Collinsville, Brian Kabbes of Effingham St. Anthony and Dan Morrissey of Marquette and pitcher Campbell of Collinsville.

No Granite City players were named to the All-State team.

Alton explodes in the first, demolishes Glen Carbon

Special to the Press-Record

ALTON — It was a night Art Jovi wished had never happened. Jovi, manager of the Glen Carbon American Legion baseball team, sat and watched helplessly here Tuesday night as his team was thrashed by Alton 18-0 in District 22 action.

Alton exploded for 10 runs in the first inning and coasted in from there, adding one run in the second inning, four in the fourth and three more in the sixth.

The loss drops Glen Carbon's record to 4-9 on the season, while Alton upped its mark to 7-4.

Alton scored its runs on 17 hits. Glen Carbon managed only six hits. Two of them were by shortstop Mike Robertson who went two-for-four in the game. Second baseman Tom Greco was one-for-two.

Alton exploded for 10 runs in the first inning and coasted in from there, adding one run in the second inning, four in the fourth and

Jamie Eads took the loss for Glen Carbon on the mound. He worked the first three innings, allowing seven hits, ten runs and walking three. He struck out none.

On the Alton side of the scorebook, it looked like a hitters' parade. The Morrissey boys from Class 1A state champion Alton Marquette did enough to do in Glen Carbon. Dan Morrissey had three hits and two RBIs, Pat Morrissey had three hits and a RBI and Steve Morrissey had a grand-slam home run. But there was more.

Shortstop Dick Lyons had a home run, a single and four RBIs for Alton. Chip Brakeville had two hits and two RBIs. Doug Orban had a hit and three RBIs. Kent Schell had a hit and two RBIs and Chuck Matthews had three hits.

Glen Carbon's next action will be Friday at Edwardsville in doubleheader action at Hoppe Field beginning at 6 p.m.

Finley Plating takes Under-16 state title

Special to the Press-Record

ALTON — The Granite City Finley Plating team of under-16 year old boys won the 1980 Illinois State Championship in Junior Cup Competition here Sunday. The victory means that the Granite City team will advance to the National and Midwest Tournaments in Cincinnati July 26. The winner of that tournament will go to the North American Tournament in Toronto Aug. 26.

Finley, coached by Gerhard Maas, defeated Northbrook 2-1 in the title game at Alton's Moore Park. Goals for Finley Plating were scored by Scott Greathouse and Rich Moore. And most of it happened while the Granite City team was a man short.

In the early moments of the physical contest, Finley's David Paz, in retaliation to a shove from a Northbrook player, kicked at him. A referee spotted the infraction and ejected Paz from the game, leaving Finley a man short for the duration.

In the third place game, Mendoza Sporting Goods won over the defending state champion Chicago Kickers on a forfeit. As the game started, both teams' head coaches were warned about coaching from the sidelines and given yellow warning cards. While Mendoza coach Roger Lavin sat down and remained silent, the Kickers' coach did not heed the warning.

Ten minutes into the game, the Chicago coach was given a red ejection card. But when he left the field, he took his entire team with him. The referees awarded the forfeit to Mendoza.

Saturday, in preliminary round action, Finley whipped the Kickers 3-1, while Mendoza was beaten by Northbrook 4-1.

In the Under-14 Division, the Kickers' team won the state title. Northbrook was second, followed by Ellsworth Concrete of Granite City and Springfield in third and fourth. Sunday, the Kickers' team won the state Under-19 state championship, with the St. Elizabeth-McDonald's team finished fourth, with the St. Elizabeth's Tigers placing fourth.

Earlier this season, the Granite City Soccer Club won the state Under-19 state championship and the Granite City Football Club finished fourth. The Granite Soccer Club later was eliminated from further Cup competition in the Midwest Regional by the Bavarian Kickers from Milwaukee.

The Finley Plating team is now preparing for its trip to Cincinnati, holding regular practices at the Granite City Army Depot.

Players on the Finley squad are also hoping to raise more funds for their trip. Several fund-raising projects have been started.

Happy Warriors have gone many directions

NOTE: The following is the second in a series on the 1980 state basketball championship team from Granite City High School. The team will be honored at a Lincoln Place reunion next month.

By PETE HAYES
Sports Editor
GRANITE CITY — When opportunity knocked for the 1980 Granite City High School basketball team, it darned near knocked the door down. And when the chance was there, the Happy Warriors stuck their collective feet in the door and won it all.

In 1980 the Illinois High School Athletic Association had a different format for advancing teams to sectional tournaments than is used now. "For the smaller schools, there were the old district tournaments the winners of which advanced to the regionals. But two teams came out of the regional tournaments. The champion and the runner-up. If not for that, the Happy Warriors would have been able to watch the state tournament from the stands instead of winning it on the floor. They lost the regional championship game to Wood River but came back in the sectional championship game to beat the Oilers.

"We played them (Wood River) four times," said Andy Phillip, a starting guard on the team who still lives in Granite City. "They won the first and third times and we won the second and fourth. That was when it really counted."

everyone there with its all-out style of play. The Warriors defeated Herrin 24-22 in the championship game after defeating favorite and 1979 state champion Dundee in the semifinals. Granite trailed Herrin most of the game.

"The scores were a lot lower then," said Hagopian. "But there was a lot of strategy going on. By the time we got to that championship game, we were pretty tired."

Tired. That probably wasn't the half of it. Granite City and Herrin each played four games in 48 hours in the marathon circus-like atmosphere of the State Finals. "There were 16 teams up there then," said Hagopian. "They started playing on Thursday and finished Saturday night."

And the State Finals weren't played in the new, spacious Assembly Hall at the University of Illinois. That facility wasn't even a glimmer in some architect's eye. No sire, the games were played in tiny Huff Gymnasium at the U of I. Its seating capacity was only a little over 7,000.

And yet, a then-record crowd of 48,575 witnessed the three day tournament. "Even though there was a lot of hoopla about it, I don't think we knew what we'd done," said Hagopian.

"Most of the 1980 basketball Warriors came from Lincoln Place. They played together constantly, during basketball season and during the off-season. They were a family. "We couldn't believe the reception we got," said Hagopian. "It was really something."

The family however, as is the case with all families, has drifted apart through the years. There are former team members in Florida, Ohio, California, Illinois. The names are still familiar Granite City names.

The hub of the team was all-star Andy Phillip. He later went on to star at the University of Illinois and in the National Basketball Association. "He was it," said Hagopian. "We were a good team without him, but we were a great team with him. We wouldn't have done it if not for Andy Phillip."

Phillip, who will attend the Lincoln Place Reunion next month, is a juvenile corrections worker in Los Angeles County, California. Then there's Evon Parsagian, another starter. He now lives in Fort Meyer Beach, Florida.

Ed Hoff is retired and lives in Fort Lauderdale, Florida. George Gages, a starter who scored 31 points in the State Finals, still lives in Granite City.

Danny Effimoff, a starting forward, is a building contractor in Argo, Illinois. Ebbie Mueller, a substitute guard, works for General Motors in Bay Village, Ohio.

Everett "Farmer" Daniels, a substitute center, now lives in East Alton. Sam Maroudian, a forward, lives in California. John Markarian, a starting forward, lives in Granite City.

Softball ace signs to play for Cougars

EDWARDSVILLE — Sherri Strand, rated one of the most outstanding softball players at Edinburg Park, Ill. High School the past four years, has signed an Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women letter of intent to enroll at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The announcement was made by Cindy Jones, SIUE's assistant athletic director and head coach of the Cougars' softball team. Said Jones: "Sherri is a well-rounded athlete with sound basics and a strong bat in softball. She could easily find herself at any of seven positions for the 1980 campaign. Although defensively I'm not sure where she will start, I am sure that her hitting and offensive play will be a boost for Cougar softball."

During her four-year varsity career at Edinburg Park, Coach Jones pointed out, Strand played both at second base and at shortstop. In her last three years in high school, she hit 75-for-144 (a sensational .521 average), racked up 83 runs batted in and stole 47 bases. She struck out only three times in four years of prep competition.

Her honors include: As a freshman she was named to her school's all-conference honorable mention list; as a sophomore, she was chosen to the All-Conference team, more than 100 racers to benefit the Moolah Shrine Temple's building fund.

The race is expected to draw top racers on the AMA Winston Pro circuit such as former Grand National Champion and current number two-ranked rider Gene Romero, who races under the Busch colors; Gary Scott, one of the most consistent riders of the Grand National Circuit; and Mike "Captain" Kidd, the U.S. Army's entry on the AMA circuit.

"The Busch Half-Mile Championship will give St. Louis area motorcycle fans the chance to see the best racers in the country and help a worthwhile cause at the same time," said W. Munro Roberts III, Busch marketing manager. "This should be one of the most exciting motor sports events coming to our area this year."

Mel Schisler, race chairman, said proceeds from the event will help the Moolah Shrine Temple, now based at 3821 Lindell, build a new temple headquarters near Highway 40 and Woods Mill Road in Manchester. Gates will open at 6 p.m. at Tri-City Speedway, located at 5100 Namack Road, one mile south of I-270, in Granite City. Time trials are scheduled for 7 p.m. with the race to get underway at 8 p.m. Competition will be in the expert, junior (intermediate) and novice categories culminating in a 25-lap final.

Tickets are $4 in advance, $5 at the gate and $2 for children. Advance tickets are available by calling 631-8744 or at the following six area motorcycle dealers: Doneison Cycles, Inc.; Widman Harley-Davidson and Dave Mungenast St. Louis Honda in Missouri side, Ahn's Yamaha in Collinsville, Pice Kawasaki in Edwardsville and Granite City Honda in Illinois.

The race is part of a broad motor sports program supported by Busch beer, a product of Anheuser-Busch, Inc. In addition to sponsorship of Gene Romero (the "Busch Burtito"), the brand also sponsors three-time Winston Cup champion Cale Yarborough on the NASCAR race circuit as well as the Busch Clash—a $150,000 race for pole winners that is the richest race per mile in the sport.

The brand also hosts the Busch pole award, which provides $1,000 to the fastest qualifier in each race during the Winston Cup season plus $25,000 to the driver winning the most poles during the year.

GC wrestlers dominate

GRANITE CITY — Granite City wrestlers dominated the upper weights here Saturday at the Granite City Sectional Freestyle Tournament at South High's wrestling annex.

The top three finishers in each weight division will advance to the state freestyle tournament this Saturday and Sunday in DeKalb. A total of 13 Granite Cityans will move on.

Starting with the 154 pound division, it was a clean sweep for Granite City. Dean Perkins from South was the 154 pound winner. Jon Frangoulis was second and Glenn Thompson was third. Jim Frangoulis of South was the winner of the 178 pound division. Bob Patton of North was second followed by John Morris of North in third.

At the 191 pound level, Dave Owens from North and Doug Graham from South finished one-two. There was no third place finisher.

Bruce Monahan from South was the winner of the heavyweight division. There were no second or third place finishers.

In the lower weights, fewer Granite Cityans were entered, so fewer will advance to the state finals. At 98 pounds, Rob Milazzo of Roxana was the winner, followed by Kip Kristoff of Bethalto and Colin Davis of Granite North.

At 105+ pounds, Duane Brown of East St. Louis was the winner. Cary Hunter of Edwardsville was second. Jeff Kueth of Mount Olive was third.

At 114 pounds, Roxana's Rob Warren was the winner. Darin Macklow of Herrin was second. Steve Wheeler of Highland was third.

At 123 pounds, Bobb McDaniel of Herrin was second. Kenny Wilson of Granite South was third.

At 132 pounds, Jay McKenzie of Cahokia was the winner. Larry Porell of East St. Louis was second followed by Granite North's Steve Smith in third.

Bob Kirgins of Granite City was the winner of the 143 pound division. Second place was taken by Bob Dahm of Belleville West. Pat Wright of East St. Louis was third.

named to the All-State team were: first basemen Dave Christianson of Chicago Kennedy and Jack Cullen of Peoria Woodruff, second basemen Jeff Umphrey of Bradley Bourbonnais and Mike Zobrist of Morton, shortstops Scott Hooper of Crest-Monroe and Larry Coffey of Hinsdale Central, third baseman Tim Sartori of Lockport, outfielders Kevin Bauer of Matamoros, Bob Daggy of Bremen Midlothian, Pat Diamond of LaSalle-Peru and Don Montgomery of Proviso.

Kevin Sykes walked and scored on Bob Batey's double. In the fourth, Rick Daily reached on a scratch hit, moved to second when Mike DeGonia walked, and scored when Bethalto pitcher Anderson misplayed Mark Linhart's grounder. DeGonia then scored on Vrenick's single. Tri-City added two more runs in the fifth when Rich Cope reached on an error and scored on another error on a ball hit by DeGonia. Daily, reaching on a fielder's choice, scored on another Vrenick single. But the five runs weren't nearly enough, even in the odd Bethalto park, which featured an imaginary line in left and center fields beyond which a fly ball automatically was ruled a ground-rule double. Bethalto pumped four of the umpire-called doubles—three in the fifth—so Tri-City's fate could have been worse. Instead of embarking on its drive toward post-season play by entering the top four, Tri-City and manager Warfield were disappointed. It's going to be tough," Warfield said. "We needed this one tonight. We play Collinsville tomorrow." And Collinsville is even higher in the standings than Bethalto.

of Carbondale, outfielders Tim Stewart of Pinckneyville, Dan Pender of Cobden, Gil Tope of Herrin, Brent Koster of Carbondale, Todd Painter of Mt. Carmel and Randy Pter of Carlyle, pitchers Scott Maloney of Murphysboro, Tom Kloekner of Breese Mater Dei and David White of Centralia and catchers Scott Bridges of Chester and Dan Kerley of Vienna. All-Eastern, All-Western, All-Northern and All-Chicago teams were also announced.

Rick Daily made his way to third when Marissa's catcher sailed the ball into centerfield as he attempted to steal second. The umpire then called Marissa's starting pitcher, Terry Hand, for a balk and Daily trotted home with Tri-City's third run.

But the excitement and nerve-racking action was yet to come. "Fenton did a good job," said Warfield. "He comes in and shuts them down with runners on second and third." Relief pitcher Fenton did his job in the sixth but the seventh was a different story. Walking the lead off batter, he gave up a double and Tri-City's lead was quickly in jeopardy. "I just had to go with the ace," said Warfield. "He was referring to Cripps. Although making his first batter ground out, Cripps gave up Marissa's second run while the tying run moved to third. Tri-City's extra tally back in the sixth loomed very large now. Gaining the second out with a strike out, the game was all but over.

However the following batter, Schultze who ripped the so-called double, Warfield made his decision and Cripps intentionally walked him. Sticking to his guns Warfield had Cripps intentionally walk the next batter also. The gamble paid off as Cripps forced the lead out, but not until he had run the count to two balls and two strikes. "You want to see grey hair at age 41," said Warfield.

Trailriders Fun Show Saturday

The Trailriders Saddle Club of Granite City will hold a Fun Show at 6:30 p.m. Saturday at the riding arena on Chouteau Slough Road at Rock Road, near the Chain of Rocks Canal levee.

The public is invited to attend, Kathy Bargiel, secretary, said this week. Results of last week's Point Show also were announced.

Janetta Brown, riding Little Buddy, captured three first-place awards in the point events, taking blue ribbons in the junior poles, junior barrels and junior plug races.

Double winners were: Melvin Williams on Flicka in pony poles and pony barrels; Carolyn Smith showing Wamp's Fine Pine in haltering mares and riding the same horse in the senior poles and senior barrels.

Shelle Hartzel on Van's Auld Socks, in the ladies' western pleasure and open western pleasure and Ginger Bowman riding Z-Bar in the senior poles and senior barrels.

Single winners were: Chrissy Woodward on Ringo, pony pleasure; Pattie Bryarly showing Mr. Johnny Glo, haltering geldings; Barb Allen showing Ima's Jet Pet, haltering stallions. Tammy Maeras on Foxy Flash, open barrelback pleasure; Lloyd Heiney on King Cole, gaited country pleasure; Elmo Ross on Frosty's Root Beer, fox trotting.

Gene Carter on Hanky Panky, men's western pleasure; Don James Jr. on Jessie, open flag race; Lila Schneidewind on Go Girl, ladies' gaited country pleasure; and Lorraine Leroy on Bambi, senior plug race.

The remaining shows scheduled this season are: Point shows, Saturday, July 12, Saturday, Aug. 23, and Saturday, Sept. 6; fun shows, Saturday, Aug. 9, Saturday, Sept. 20, and Saturday, Oct. 4.

The Trailriders annual Money Show will take place at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, July 26.

Miss Bargiel explained that if the money show is cancelled due to rain, the events will be scheduled the weekend immediately following.

Competing riders accumulate points throughout the season toward winning the top awards in various events. High point trophies will be presented Oct. 4.

Clinic seeks grant for vans

If a grant can be obtained by the Mental Health Clinic Quad-City Center, 2024 State St., for two vans and drivers, the clinic would be able to offer free transportation to the elderly and handicapped of southern Madison County, officials said following a public hearing on the grant application Monday evening.

No one attended the hearing, other than those involved in writing the grant application, but the hearing did fulfill one of the requirements of the application.

John Auer of the clinic staff said the vans would solve several problems being encountered by the staff of the clinic. Currently, the Quad-City center operates three programs—day treatment, work adjustment and housing.

The staff currently provides transportation in private automobiles to many of the programs for those who cannot find transportation.

In addition, personal cars are being used for field trips and to take patients to Public Aid, the office of Supplemental Security Income and other necessary trips.

If a grant under the U.S. Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964 is approved, vans and drivers would be available for those trips, Auer said. If the full grant request is granted, two vans, one equipped with a wheelchair lift, and two drivers' salaries would be provided. That would enable the clinic to open the transportation program to non-patients and provide transportation to the elderly and handicapped of the area.

The clinic's program would supplement the senior citizen vans already being operated by some local townships, he said.

However, Auer warned, "This won't happen tomorrow. The announcement whether the grant is approved is anticipated in about 90 days, but bidding and "red tape" requirements after approval of the grant will take about two years, he estimated.

First to donate eye

A parting gift was left to benefit his fellow man by the late Leroy James Hartwick, 57, who died at St. Elizabeth Medical Center at 10:10 p.m. Monday.

Mr. Hartwick has donated his eye to the Lions Club eye donor program.

He also donated his pituitary glands to the Human Growth Chapter of St. Louis to aid children with growth problems.

Mr. Hartwick lost one eye in the service of his country during World War II.

He is the first person in the Quad-Cities area to be registered with the local Lions Eye Donor program to die since the program was initiated in August of 1979.

His wife, who is among his survivors, Mrs. Donna (DaMotte) Hartwick, has also pledged to donate her eyes to the program.

According to a Lions Club official, there is a "critical shortage of eye tissue. Such tissue is used for corneal transplants and for medical research and education.

All three Lions Clubs in Pontoon Beach, Granite City and Madison are participating in the program.

Within six hours after death the eyes are removed by special trained staff members of SEMC and then transported to an Eye Bank at Barnes Hospital by local Lions Club members.

Persons wishing more information on the Lions of Illinois Eye Donor Registry may obtain information by contacting any member of Lions International.

Washington weakening the American steel industry

By WILLIAM DE LANCEY Chairman, American Iron and Steel Institute

The American steel industry has been infected by a disease which limits the flow of our life-giving element — cash — to the productive organs of the economic body. This disease is derived from price controls, dumped and subsidized imports, costly environmental and OSHA mandates, and inadequate tax depreciation.

Stemming from governmental policies in these various areas, this disease (which for convenience I will call the Washington disease) has weakened the U.S. steel industry. But, fortunately, the disease has not yet fallen into a terminal state.

Washington disease is checked before it overcomes the recuperative power of the steel industry depends, in final analysis, on whether there is a sufficient understanding of the implications of the diagnosis and what needs to be done.

I would like to pause here to place my comments on the Washington disease in proper perspective.

Specifically, I want to emphasize that it would be wrong to suggest that the federal government is the ultimate cause of all the difficulties which have been experienced by steel companies in this country. Most definitely this is not the case.

We are familiar with what the business cycle can do on its own to our level of operations. OPEC oil prices have hit us hard, both directly and through our critically important automotive market.

Nor are we in steel management about to claim infallibility for ourselves or our predecessors with regard to policy decisions.

Nevertheless, after giving

due recognition to the impact

federal government, far more than all other causes, have operated to substantially

realizing its full potential.

In the case of steel,

however, government has

bounds of involvement.

It has advanced to the

effect of its various policies, has been to prevent the industry from achieving a

profitability.

preciated.

system and, as in the human body, a constriction in the

sufficient profits seriously

This danger becomes

the cost of the massive new facilities which are required.

Many still do not have a

Our communications

that we are dealing with a multi-faceted intangible

combination various

substantially hurt our

profitability.

pression of opposition to

the administration

system of so-called

"voluntary" price guidelines

we are concerned.

judgment presumably gave

is a revealing illustration of the political nature of our governmental problems.

Realistically, I cannot expect that we would be able to mount a successful program which would bring

price controls squeeze steel industry profit margins.

I would welcome it, but the most I can hope for is a rounded appreciation of

and of the dangers of governmental interference

I expect more, however,

from the Executive Branch.

Some policymaking officials in the White House

It would be apparent on

harm the steel industry and

be eliminated at the earliest possible moment.

I do not know whether this responsibility has been assigned or is being assigned

Another barrier to

steel problem arises from the

extreme free-trading form,

the position that there should be no restraints whatever on

countries.

A corollary would be that

protectionist, an arch villain,

and a black hat of the worst

There have been times when we were cast in those roles, but I believe that this problem is declining with the realization that the steel situation has more to do with people thought.

The dumping issue

Congressional support on the

of the recognition that

steel companies.

foreign producers, dumping

advantageous and com-

ticularly in view of the

foreign governments give to companies for social and

Our support on the dump-

American steel consumers

tightens around the world,

supplier will continue to will come to him at a fair

Many U.S. companies

These customers can be

their increased exposure to

steel industry shrinks from ther as a result of a con-

profitability.

Steel imports have

tention recently as a result of the commencement of dumping actions by U.S.

Administration to suspend

the Trigger* Price

Mechanism (TPM), which

imports prices fell below the

major foreign producers.

complaints on existing litigation and accordingly, I will only say I expect that the eventual outcome of these proceedings will be to lessen

dumping on the U.S. market.

solution of the steel problem

regulation.

basically, is one of lack of

large percentage of the population including the

officials.

Let me state the basic fact of the steel industry. It is

load on the steel industry. And it does so in

First, it pre-empt

a substantial part of the capital budget and diverts it

facilities.

Secondly, once these environmental control

existing profitability.

We do not differ from other

enjoy a perfectionist en-

But where health risks are

of attempting to reach such a goal. Will jobs be jeopardized? Will individuals who have invested their savings in our

operation of the facilities

consume too much energy?

These are proper

regulatory authorities — to Business school wins accreditation

The School of Business at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville has received formal accreditation for its graduate programs from the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business.

The assembly voted approval of the university's voluntary application at a national meeting in Chicago during the weekend, based on reports of AACSB teams that visited the local campus in January and off-campus sites this spring.

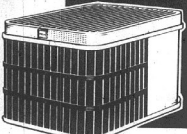

SIUE was also required to complete a self-study report which analyzed its goals and offerings, according to David Ault, associate dean for graduate programs.

Madison County second in state in number of inmates behind bars

The courts in Madison County put more prisoners behind bars in state prisons in 1979 than any other county in Illinois, with the exception of Cook County, according to the annual report of the Department of Corrections (DOC) sent to Madison County State's Attorney Nicholas G. Byron.

"We are very proud of our record and this shows that we are making Madison County a bad place for criminals," Byron commented after reading the report.

It noted that Madison County committed 140 criminals to state prisons in 1979, up from 136 in the previous year. "Actually, the total number of prisoners sentenced to penitentiaries is a lot higher than that, because the DOC figures do not include those on appeal, revocations or others sentenced, but not actually behind bars," Byron said. He also noted that only five counties in the state committed more than 100 prisoners—Cook (which includes Chicago), Madison, St. Charles, Macon, and Peoria counties.

"We also are proud that we were the only county among the top five which actually increased the number of persons committed to the penitentiaries from 1978 to 1979. Cook County showed a 20 percent decrease in its commitments during the period. In Dupage, Kane, Will, Winnebago and St. Clair Counties, none had more than 99 prisoners committed to prison in 1979," Byron added.

"We feel it takes a great deal of cooperation by the police, the state's attorney's office, the courts and others in the justice system to achieve results such as these shown in the Department of Corrections' report," he added.

Allen to train as a prosecutor

Assistant Madison County State's Attorney Richard "Dick" Allen will attend prosecutors school at Northwestern University in Chicago next month before opening the first Granite City warrant office of the state's attorney's office, State's Attorney Nicholas Byron said Tuesday.

Byron said Assistant State's Attorney Larry Keshner has opened the county's first satellite warrant office in Alton, which has been "very successful, thus far."

After completing the week-long prosecutors school, Allen will have some vacation time before opening the warrant office in Granite City, Byron added.

Area police have requested that an office be opened here for obtaining felony warrants. Currently, detectives and police have to drive to Edwardsville to have their cases reviewed by a warrant officer before felony charges can be approved.

Allen will be authorized to approve felony charges in many types of routine cases, Byron said. However, in areas where the Edwardsville office has specialized units, such as blue collar crime, rape, forgery and career criminal units, officers still will be asked to bring their cases to Edwardsville for review prior to the filing of charges, he added.

SUIT BY FORMER JAIL PRISONER

Tim Whittle is seeking in excess of $10,000 for injury and distress in a suit against Madison County and Sheriff Emil Tofant.

Whittle contends that while he was a county jail prisoner June 23, 1979, he was beaten and molested. The suit alleges an inadequate number of guards, failure to separate prisoners, and failure to prevent access to items which could be used as weapons.

Original Ill. prairie here being restored

A strip of original Illinois prairie, discovered along the bluff at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, is being restored and managed as the first project for the Youth Conservation Corps this summer.

The group, made up of 24 high school students picked to study conservation and earn a summer salary in the federal YCC program, are working 30 hours a week at minimum wage and learning the other 10 hours. They include Karen Lapinski, of Madison, James Price and Raymond Price, both of Venice, and Todd Daniel and Alan Reeves, both of Granite City.

The program, directed by education professor and wild food specialist Robert Williams, is funded by a $32,000 grant through the Illinois Department of Conservation.

With the June sun as a companion, the group got its first lesson in restoration by learning to use saws and axes on trees and woody shrubs infesting along the acre of bluff.

The trees had to be removed because they threaten prairie grasses with too much shade. Later, the crew will burn the site just as the native Indians and natural prairie fire did to preserve it.

Richard Keating, professor of biological sciences and prairie expert, said the burning will kill the encroaching growth, but the prairie grasses will come back because of their deep root system. "A plant three to five feet high may have a root system up to 23 feet deep," he noted.

When the area is completely cleared, the YCC workers will learn more about the individual plants that live in a prairie—samples from the astor, legume, gensen and lily families.

"Unlike stories we have read from the past, all prairies are not made of grasses growing so tall they can hide a man on horseback," Keating said. A prairie can have a subtle variety or rhythm of different plants and flowers, depending on the kind of prairie it is and the available moisture, he explained.

has some tall grasses typical of the fringe hill area and is believed to be of good quality, measured by the number and variety of plants growing there, Keating said. "It has never been plowed or grazed—a combination that has destroyed most of the state's original prairie."

When the site is finished, it will be added to the map of the nature trail that was built by the YCC group last summer. It will be open to visitors and groups interested in seeing the land as their grandfathers saw it, Williams said.

Other projects scheduled for the eight-week summer session include moving and building a log cabin; adding a roof of natural shingles, to be used at the entrance of the nature trail; building two bridges and constructing a trail to link two sections of the bike trail; improving and controlling erosion along the nature trail; and improving a pond to be used for ice skating.

Many delays in receiving Medicare medical insurance payments can be avoided, according to Oliver Holmes, manager of the East St. Louis District Social Security Office.

Medical insurance is the part of Medicare that pays on doctor bills, out-patient hospital bills and a number of other items and services not covered by hospital insurance.

In order to receive payment, it is necessary for a person to submit a request for payment, and for the doctor or other supplier to complete part of the form or provide an itemized bill.

It is in this area where the problems usually arise, said Holmes. Many bills and receipts submitted do not provide enough information about the services provided to permit a decision to be made as to whether the services are covered.

When this happens, the patient must be contacted again to get the needed information, and this substantially delays the processing of payment.

To help prevent such delays, Holmes suggests that people be sure that each bill submitted for payment shows:

- A description of each service provided.
- The date the service was provided.
- The place the service was provided.
- The charge for each service provided.
- The doctor or supplier who provided each service, and; The patient's name and health insurance claim number exactly as they appear on the Medicare card.

It is also helpful if a diagnosis of the patient's condition is shown on at least one of the bills submitted. For more information, a form titled, "Payment Under Medicare Medical Insurance," is available from the East St. Louis District Social Security Office, 630 Missouri Ave., East St. Louis 62201. The phone number is 274-4100 or, toll-free, Enterprise 1-555.

NW Railway shipping down

Because of declining merchandise traffic volume and an expected slump in coal traffic during the so-called "miners' vacation" period in the coal industry, Norfolk and Western Railway plans to furlough more than 1,000 employees across its 14-state system beginning June 30.

The furloughs, affecting locomotive and freight car repair personnel and related employees, will total 1,091 persons as of June 30, and will increase to 1,464 as of July 14. It is anticipated, based on current economic conditions, that most of these, furloughed workers will be recalled Aug. 4.

The totals at Decatur include 133 on June 30 and 136 on July 14. Norfolk and Western's merchandise traffic levels have fallen drastically in the last month because of reduced volume of automobiles and auto parts, lumber and other building supplies, and steel shipments.

In May, merchandise traffic—all commodities except coal, coke and iron ore—was down about 24 percent from the same month a year ago. That trend has continued in June, a spokesman said.

Because of lower traffic levels, fewer freight cars and locomotives are being used, so there is less need to repair them, the spokesman said.

Burglar leaves bike in house

Ray Sexton, 2731 Warren Ave., checked a vacant house he owns in the 2600 block of East 26th Street at 5 p.m. Monday and heard noises inside. He found the rear door was open and the would-be burglar or burglars had fled, he told police.

A short time after the incident, a youth approached Sexton and said he wanted the bicycle inside the house, because it belonged to a cousin of his. Sexton found a bicycle had been left in the house, possibly by a burglar, and refused to release the bicycle to the boy.

Missing are a $30 drill, a $30 jig saw, home hand tools and some drinking glasses.

CLEVELAND BURGLARY A $400 color television set, a $10 radio, a $40 hat and dryer, some towels and wash cloths, food, men's clothing, playing cards and cooking utensils were stolen from the home of Dan Stamps, 1704 rear Cleveland Blvd., it was discovered Monday. The owner said the burglary occurred between Wednesday, June 18, and Monday, June 23.

Rosch promoted by national group

The American Lung Association, the nation's largest voluntary health agency, has named Robert S. Rosch, formerly of Granite City, to be the deputy managing director at the Manhattan headquarters of the Christmas Seal Association (American Lung Association).

Rosch graduated from Stanford University and Stanford Law School. At the law school, he won the top extracurricular award for having made the greatest contribution to the life of the school.

He later worked for six years as a college dean and professor. Switching to the health field, Rosch served as staff legal counsel to the National Easter Seal Society before joining the American Lung Association.

At the lung association, he first headed the government relations program and then the development program. Under his leadership, the organization experienced a swift revitalization of its fund-raising efforts and achieved the best Christmas Seal campaign increase in its 75-year history.

Rosch, 37, lives in Greenwich, Conn., with his wife and two daughters. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Rosch of Granite City.

After responding to five calls complaining about the noise at a "loud party," Granite City police arrested two young men and filed charges against both during the weekend.

Booked were David Ramsey, 21, of 2820 Willow Ave., on a charge of obstructing a police officer, and James Tucker, 20, of 2404 Grand Ave., on a charge of possession of cannabis. Officers alleged that in making their latest call, Ramsey stepped in front of an officer as he started to enter the kitchen of the home and told the officer he could not go in there.

Authorities said when the officer entered the kitchen, Tucker had a substance believed to be marijuana.

Prison sentences of up to five years, and fines of up to a million dollars per violation. Next, while expanding the old strikebreaking law to make it more useful against business, the Kennedy bill takes the extraordinary step of freeing labor unions from current criminal statutes dealing with extortion and blackmail.

These are just some — though by no means all — of the features of S. 1722. Together, however, they demonstrate that in terms of potential impact, this bill is one of the most destructive Congress has considered in many years.

My advice to the business community is simple: Unless significantly amended, we should resist it tooth and nail.

Triple "S" business open here

Triple "S" Inc., a new secretarial business, has opened at 1909 State St. and is officially dedicated with a ribbon cutting at 10:30 a.m. Monday.

The business offers a full range of secretarial services, "from idea, to layout to mailing," according to Nadine Grace of Granite City, operator of the business.

The service will be available to businesses, students or anyone needing typing, bulletins, newsletters, bulk mailings, electronic stenography or transcriptions or other work done, she said.

Cassette and reel-to-reel tape playing equipment is available for transcribing dictation or transcripts, she said.

The service also is equipped to provide bookkeeping service for some small businesses.

The office phone number is 463-2977. All work will be done in the Triple "S" office, the operator said.

Discussions with 3 county officials

Uncertainty over wording of a January 1980 contract with American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Local 799 has delayed signing by the county clerk, treasurer and recorder of deeds.

Discussions with the three officials are being arranged. A tentative agreement has been reached with the circuit clerk, and the contract document has been signed by the sheriff, regional school superintendent, auditor and state's attorney.

At the time of approval by the Madison County Board, countywide elected officials agreed to monetary aspects. But some of them sought a voice in the contract language, citing requirements of existing state laws as being among the factors needing attention.

AUTO IS STOLEN

The 1979 Mercury Cougar XR7 auto of Christine Farrell, 17a Melvin Drive, was stolen from the employees' parking lot of First Granite City National Bank in the 2000 block of Edison Avenue between 7:30 a.m. and 3 p.m. Monday. The owner said there was a spare key hidden in the vehicle.

Birds are eating garden produce

Area Garden Adviser

Birds can be pestiferous in both fruit and vegetable gardens. Feeding seems to be worse in dry years.

Gardeners wonder if the beauty of the birds and their insect feeding offset the crop damage they incur.

Birds are noted for their attacks on cherries. But blueberries, blackberries and all ripening tree fruits are subject to feeding. In vegetable gardens, sweet corn is a favorite food of the blackbird family.

Preventing bird damage is difficult, especially if large numbers of birds are present. Commercial growers try to grow more than the birds can eat.

Gardeners try to protect what they grow. The most effective control is covering the plant or fruit with a protective covering.

This can be cheesecloth or nylon netting. Major garden supply houses have bird netting material. However, your plants must be small enough to be covered or caged.

Scare devices sometimes work, but only for short periods of time. Aluminum pie plates, reflective metal strips, ropes, tin cans, hoses, plastic snakes and scarecrows may be tried.

Distraction is another tactic against birds. Since water or moisture is a factor, a water supply away from the garden may help. Conversely, it may attract more birds that will stay around to help at the crop.

Mulberry trees are a good diversionary food, but birds will move to other crops after the mulberries are finished.

Thus, preventing bird damage is not easy. The netting is the only positive control method. All other treatments give the birds a fair chance.

By RICHARD L. LESHNER

President

U.S. Chamber of Commerce

More and more Americans now believe this country is never really safe until Congress goes out on a limb.

It follows that when Congress stays in Washington, remains hard at work, and then comes back with a piece of legislation officially described as broad, sweeping and vague, all of us should be on guard.

This is especially true of a bill now awaiting final Senate approval that has been in the works for years and that has the full support of America's favorite liberal, Senator Edward Kennedy.

Mr. Kennedy's legislation, S. 1722, is certainly broad and sweeping, for it is nothing less than an attempt to rewrite and consolidate the nation's criminal laws.

What's more, it is very vaguely written.

A man whose intelligence and diligence I greatly admire, Senator Jim McClure of Idaho, tells me he first became interested in Kennedy's bill two years ago, when he learned it would inadvertently invoke a two-year mandatory prison sentence for hunters who shot ducks out of season.

Now that McClure, working with the staff of the Senate Steering Committee, has thoroughly dissected the bill, he has reached a far more ominous conclusion that should horrify the entire American business community.

In his words, "... a broad judicial interpretation of S. 1722 would put large numbers of businessmen in jail."

The bill makes literally hundreds of changes in current law. With only minor exceptions, these provisions governing business liability are made looser, more

These provisions dealing with drug abuse, pornography, and sex crimes are made narrower and more difficult to interpret.

McClure observes: "It could be that these two divergent trends in the bill are wholly coincidental, and that the staff of the Senate's most liberal senator has made hundreds of painfully considered changes."

Next, the bill would make it a federal crime to refuse to obey an agency subpoena to appear as a witness or produce documents.

An agency subpoena will now be considered "an order" if it does not make a bit of difference if you are convinced the subpoena is unlawful.

Next, in the Senate version of Kennedy's bill, one section — endgame — would bootstrap certain OSHA, environmental and minor safety violations to class D felonies. That could mean from having to commit perjury — you will go to jail for threatening to evict him.

Police officers, of course, cannot take such stern measures — even against suspected murderers.

So just think: In this land where we came to be free, a suspected murderer would have more rights after that the staff of the Senate's most liberal senator has made hundreds of painfully considered changes."
